Six Convicts Slug Guard, Flee at London

WRENCH BLOWS FELL OFFICER IN CELL BLOCK

Fugitives Escape Over 'Climb-Proof' 10-Foot Fence Before Guards Learn of Plot.

DARKNESS HIDES THEM

Drop 18 Feet Into Prison's Yard After Prying Barred Windows Open.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Six convicts slugged a guard and escaped early today from the London state prison farm here, fleeing over a 10-foot "climb-proof" fence and disappearing in the darkness before wall guards could shoot.

Prison Supt. T. C. Jenkins identified the sextet and the crimes for which they were sentenced as:

Shelton Waite, 35, of Brown county, burglary and larceny;

Edgar Russell, 34, of Cleveland, robbery;

Edward Brown, 25, Butler county, larceny.

Stewart Benne Dum, 38, Montgomery county, burglary and larceny;

Bank Robber Convict.

Harry Zenz, 37, Hamilton county, bank robbery, and Chester Phelps, 38, Union county, larceny.

Superintendent Jenkins said the slugged guard, William J. Madden, was bruised but continuing his duties.

Jenkins said the guard was assaulted as he made an inspection trip through a second-floor cell block shortly after 2 a. m.

The convicts sprang on him, Jenkins related, covered him with a blanket and then struck him with a wrench.

The men then climbed through a window from which they had pried bars with a large pipe wrench and dropped 18 feet into the prison yard.

Crawl Over Fence.

Keeping out of the direct glare of flood lights that perched atop guard posts, the men ran to a high fence that surrounds the farm and went over it. Jenkins said that wall guards noticed the convicts as they neared the top, but the six had leaped down the outside to freedom and vanished in the darkness before they could open fire.

The state highway patrol and deputies under Madison County Sheriff Gorman Clark joined prison authorities in a search.

Jenkins said the men were dressed either in blue overalls or grey trousers.

Superintendent Jenkins was formerly superintendent at the Ohio state reformatory here. He left here in 1935 to assume his duties at the London prison.

Earthquake Rocks New Yorkers But No Damage Results

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—An earthquake shook this city of 6,000,000 at 3:44 a. m. (EDT) today.

Two hours later no serious damage had been reported, though the tremor was felt in all parts of the city and in some of its suburbs. It was particularly heavy in Bronx and Queens boroughs and Westchester county where two distinct tremors were felt.

The seismograph at Fordham university recorded the shock at 3:44 a. m. Seismologists were checking the instrument to determine its intensity.

Father Joseph Lynch, Fordham seismologist, said that a sharp surface shock was recorded on his more sensitive instruments. Its center, he said, was from five to 25 miles from the university.

Police headquarters received 200 telephone calls within an hour.

ROBBERS SLEEPY

Make Themselves At Home While Family Vacations.

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Arthur F. Flanagan took a look at the beds and decided the burglars who stole $1,000 in silverware while his family was on vacation must have been pretty tired.

He said they evidently had donned his best pajamas and picked out the softest beds in the house, with signs that they had spent several nights in the place.

Workers Get 23 Millions Here In 1937

60 Per Cent Received $20 to $35 Per Week, State Report Shows.

Workers in all industries in Richland county received $23,703,887 during 1937.

An average of 16,892 per month were employed.

Nearly 60 per cent of all workers received from $20 to $35 per week.

The week of greatest employment during the year in all industries showed a total of 19,532 employed.

These figures were revealed today in a report on Richland county submitted by the division of labor statistics of the state department of industrial relations at Columbus.

Figures for all the county's industries showed that 9,794 workers were in the $20 to $35 per week class, while in the manufacturing group, 7,954 workers were in the same wage class. The average annual wage was $1,403.

Big Majority Wage Earners.

Wage earners received by far the greater part of the total payroll in the county during the year. They got $17,995,204, while the next highest group, including bookkeepers, stenographers and office clerks, received $3,618,690, and sales people were paid $1,103,797. The manufacturing industries contributed $18,965,089 or about three-fourths of all wages paid.

Forty-five per cent of all the workers received less than $25 a week, while only 38 per cent of the persons employed in the manufacturing industries were paid less than $25 weekly, the report shows.

Only 913 of all the workers were paid $50 a week or more, and 700 of them were employed in the manufacturing industries.

Miscellaneous industries paid their workers the largest amount in wages, or $17,484,081. The iron and steel industry was second with $4,732,189; metal and metal products, other than iron and steel, $2,329,001; rubber industry, $2,027,608.

Only 160 boys and girls under 18 were employed during the year in all industries.

DEDICATES SPAN

Bellville Ceremony Tomorrow to Be Preceded by Parade.

A parade at 2 p. m. Saturday will launch ceremonies which will dedicate Bellville's new $47,000 bridge, just four weeks after the bridge was opened to traffic.

District, county and village officials and state highway representatives are scheduled to speak during the dedication, with Congressman William A. Ashbrook booked as the principal speaker.

Public officials and persons who helped to obtain funds for the bridge will march in the parade, headed by the Bellville school band. The line of march will extend from the public square to the bridge over Clearfork creek at the north edge of the village.

How 'Sales Mean Jobs' Campaign Works

PRIMER OF RECOVERY ··· SALES MEAN JOBS

(NOTE REFRIGERATORS USED AS GENERAL EXAMPLE)
OH SEE .. HE IS VERY HAPPY .... HE HAS JUST SOLD A TO THE PUBLIC .. NOW CAN THE SALES DEPT FILL THE ORDER ? .... NO SALES DEPT BUT THEY WILL ORDER ON THE WAREHOUSE ..... THE WAREHOUSE MAN HASN'T ANY ON ... SO, HE GOES TO A FACTORY ..... THE FACTORY IS NOT RUNNING FACTORY ..SO, MANY WORKERS ARE HIRED ... AND VERY SOON THE FACTORY IS FACTORY RUNNING ... AND MANUFACTURING FOR THE WAREHOUSE MAN TO SUPPLY MR. AND MR. SALESMAN TO SATISFY AND MAKE HAPPY, TOO!! ..... ALL AGREE .. SALES MEAN JOBS!

Does this look like a puzzle? It isn't. It's just a unique way of explaining how the "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign works. Now that you've looked it over, the whole plan is very simple, isn't it? Mansfield opens its "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign Tuesday, with a meeting for salesmen at the Madison theater in the morning and a public mass meeting in Central park in the evening. Industry, business and the buying public are co-operating to make Mansfield's part in whipping the depression a success. A refrigerator is used in the above drawing simply as an example of how the "Sales Mean Jobs" plan works. The process would be the same, of course, in the case of any commodity, from handkerchiefs to houses.

BANNER FAIR ENDS TONIGHT

Board Hopes for Attendance of 8,000 to Boost 3-Day Total to 35,000.

The Richland county fair board hoped for a crowd of 8,000 at today's programs, anticipating a banner attendance of 35,000 for the three-day farm festival which closes tonight.

H. H. Wolf, president of the board, emphasized that there will be no "tapering off" in the program. A musical revue which drew thousands to the fairground last night will be the headline attraction again tonight. A vaudeville cast of 50 will offer a complete program change.

Fair officials estimated that 15,000 attended the day and night sessions yesterday. On Wednesday, opening day, the crowd was estimated at 12,000.

The milking contest between the mayors of six Richland county towns at 4 p. m. was expected to be a major drawing card today

Father Divine's Cult To Be Roosevelt's 'Neighbor'

President's Boyhood Friend Deals With Cultist to Establish 'Rural Heaven' Near Krum Elbow Estate.

KRUM ELBOW, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Howland Spencer, boyhood friend and neighbor of President Roosevelt, went into partnership with Father Divine, colored cult leader, today to farm his ancestral estate directly across the Hudson river from the Roosevelt family acres.

Spencer delivered title to all except 15 acres of the 1,000-acre estate to Father Divine last night. He said that Father Divine had agreed to take over the mortgages.

The idea, he said, was to farm the estate in active competition with President Roosevelt across the river.

From the Spencer family mansion, the Roosevelt ancestral home, on a hill directly across the river, is visible and near enough that its residents will be able to hear the spirited religious singing and the festivities of the fish frys which are the features of Father Divine's rural "heavens."

Relative of President.

Spencer, member of the family which has held the estate, Krum Elbow for generations, refused to consider whether his boyhood

SHOWDOWN IN RURAL SCHOOL WRANGLE NEAR

County Board Expected to Act Tomorrow on Move to Oust Superintendent.

HEAR FROM PROSECUTOR

Marriott's Report on Probe Into Charges Against Robinson Awaited.

A "showdown" in the wrangle between Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, and two members of the county board who had sought to oust him, is expected Saturday morning when the board meets at the courthouse.

Although Robinson and Floyd Hunt, one of the board members who figured in the ouster move, declined to discuss possible action at tomorrow's session, Hunt said the board would "take up the matter" and determine its course on the basis of findings of Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott who was asked to investigate alleged irregularities in Robinson's office.

Superintendent To Fight.

Robinson indicated that if ouster charges are preferred against him "without reason" he might question the right of Hunt to serve on the board as a resident of Mansfield.

Hunt, who was elected last year from Monroe township, moved to Mansfield in March. In answer to Robinson's charges of illegal residence, he said today that he had the legal right to serve on the county board since he is making his home in the city only temporarily.

"I have a ruling from the attorney general's office which says I can continue to serve if I do not make my permanent residence here," Hunt pointed out.

Started 5 Weeks Ago.

The four other members of the board could not be reached today for an opinion on the ouster question.

The move to oust Robinson was started five weeks ago after it was charged that he allegedly signed an application for WPA

FINALLY SPLIT

Babs, Count Sign Separation Agreement, Divorce Ahead.

LONDON —(AP)— Barbara Hutton, heiress to $20,000,000 to $40,000,000 of the Woolworth fortune, formally separated today from Count Court Haugwit-Reventlow, her titled husband.

Under Danish law their deed of separation can be changed into divorce after 18 months if both agree, or after 12 more months if either of them disagrees.

Their attorneys, said the heiress made no settlement on her husband. The arrangement provided for them to share their two-year-old son, Lance, and for him to share in both his parents' estates.

The Count was granted "parental rights" toward Lance, entitling him to make certain final decisions affecting his son's education, religion and career.

BIG FLYING BOAT LAST REPORTED BATTLING STORM

26-Ton Ship Encounters Disturbances In Tropics; Army Officers Believe Craft Forced Down On Pacific and Might Be Afloat; Hunt Speeded.

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—If the missing Hawaii Clipper remained in the air during the six hours it has been overdue at Manila, its emergency fuel supply would have been exhausted at 10 a. m. (EST), according to estimates of anxious Pan American Airways officials.

(By Associated Press)

MANILA, P. I.—Pan American Airways' 26-ton Hawaii Clipper, with 15 men aboard, was many hours overdue tonight on her 1,600-mile flight from Guam.

Circling far south of her normal course, to escape a tropical storm, the huge flying boat was fighting strong headwinds when last reported at 12:09 p. m. (11:09 p. m. Thursday, EST). She was about 500 miles out of Guam at that time.

As nightfall approached, about four hours after her scheduled landing, persons waiting at the airways Cavite base across Manila bay became worried and excited.

Nine hours after the last radio report from the clipper, army officers expressed belief that the $450,000 flying boat was forced down on the Pacific ocean on its 1,600-mile flight.

They laid plans for a widespread aerial search to start at dawn Saturday (about 4 p. m. today EST) in co-operation with a hunt already started by army and navy ships.

The army transport Meigs was within 87 miles of the clipper when she last reported and was instructed to search for the flying boat. From Guam came word the navy tender Penguin had been dispatched from there to join the hunt. Navy men said it would take the Penguin about three days to reach the position last given by the clipper.

Ready for Take-off.

Four army bombers and two army amphibian planes were ready to take off before dawn tomorrow to cover the probable area in which the clipper might have been forced down.

Naval officials said three destroyers were available in Manila bay to be thrown into the search if requested.

For several hours after the clipper's usual landing time—between 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. (1:30 and 2:30 a. m. EST) Pan American officials insisted they were not worried.

At 6:30 p. m. one official, although unable to explain the clipper's failure to report by radio at the regularly scheduled intervals, said:

"She had to go around the storm and buck headwinds, therefore we did not expect her until

DAVEY 'DOOMED,' SAWYER CLAIMS

He's Like a Race Horse With Too Heavy a Collar, Hobbled Legs, Candidate Says.

While Gov. Martin L. Davey reiterated charges that Charles Sawyer, his foe for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination was the candidate of John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain, Sawyer described Davey as a "race horse that cannot win because of being handicapped too heavily," as the two candidates continued their campaigns for nomination.

Speaking in Cleveland last night, Sawyer referred metaphorically to various charges against Davey, ranging from a campaign for a new office rug to the pardon of Kenyon V. Painter, Cleveland banker.

"His head will be bandaged with a thousand-dollar rug," Sawyer said. "Around his neck will be a long and heavy collar of hot mix and on his back will be a hundred pounds of five per cent sand. His hind legs will be hobbled with a Bradley twist, and fastened to his tail like an anchor will be a ball and chain known as the Kenyon Painter pardon."

Davey, speaking at Cambridge, charged that "Sawyer has an agreement with Lewis and the man from Washington hopes to run Ohio. I will be nominated over Sawyer and Lewis by a landslide." Sawyer has been endorsed by the CIO.

The Republican U. S. senatorial campaign waxed hot, meanwhile, with Arthur H. Day, Ohio supreme court justice, lambasting his opponent, Robert A. Taft.

Day declared at Cleveland that

READY TO START

Contractor Moves Equipment to Windsor Cut-off Job.

W. H. Ringwald and Sons, Chillicothe, contractors for the Windsor cut-off paving, today were moving three carloads of equipment to the project in preparation for starting work on the job probably within a week, Highway Engineer Boyd Wierman said.

A delay in submitting an estimate of the labor requirements for the job to the National Re-employment office in Mansfield was expected to postpone the starting date on the project until the middle of next week. O. H. Hoppe, manager of the re-employment office said no estimate had been received today.

Work was scheduled to start today or Saturday, and when it was announced yesterday that assignment of workers would be handled through the re-employment office here, nearly 75 men called at the office to ask for jobs. Approximately 80 per cent of the 250 men it was estimated will be needed on the job will be employed through the National Re-employment service.

The cut-off project, which is 3.59 miles long, will cost $252,057 and must be completed in 200 working days.

SPRINGFIELD —(U.P.)— Edgar Lyons, 52, tenant farmer, today killed his wife with the blunt side of an ax and hanged himself in a barn.

Their son, William, 12, found his mother's body when he was preparing for breakfast. The body of Mrs. Louise Lyons, 50, lay on a bed.

Called from nearby Plattsburg, another son, Woodrow, 25, found his father's body hanging from a beam in the barn.

The boys told authorities their father recently had returned home in what they thought was a reconciliation between their parents.

Should Building Like This Replace One Built In '69?

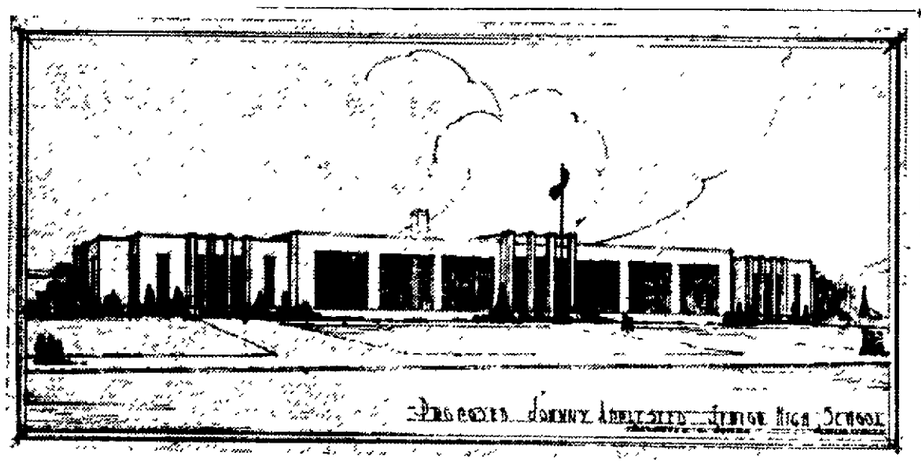
Hedges New When U. S. Grant Was President.

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another of a series of stories concerning Mansfield's school building situation, timely because of the $550,000 school bond issue to be voted on at the Aug. 9 primary. Today's story concerns the present Hedges Junior high building, and the proposed new Johnny Appleseed Junior high building.

Shortly after Ulysses S. Grant took the oath of office as president and the United States began to shake off the horror of the Civil war, the little town of Mansfield decided that it needed another school building.

It had three new ones then—Bushnell and West Fifth which were built in '69, and Carpenter (now West First) which had been built in 1870.

"The town's growing, we've a



If citizens of Mansfield approve the school bond issue on Aug. 9, boys and girls of the south half of the city will go to this building. This is a drawing of the new Johnny Appleseed Junior high school building, drawn by Althouse and Jones, Mansfield architects. It would be built on the Cline avenue acreage recently acquired by the board of education, and which is in the south central district of the city.

population of 8,000" the good citizens probably said, "and it's growing to the southeast; we need a school building in that district."

And so Hedges was added to the Mansfield school system in 1871. It was a fine, sturdy building and little boys were rather proud of attending school there.

Building Plans Call For Up-to-Date Junior High.

The building is still being used—and grandchildren of the little boys' of 1871 now are students there. It isn't a fine building now: it's dingy and dangerous.

Beside it stands a "new" annex that was added in 1911, making the old building look even more out-moded by comparison.

Since 1927 Hedges has been both elementary school and junior high, although it has had only two junior high grades—seventh and eighth. All ninth-grade pupils must go to John Simpson.

Like John Simpson Junior building, the older Hedges unit presents a fairly respectable exterior, but it has a dark, ugly interior.

There are two long, narrow, dark class rooms that were once a single room. It was designed for 40 desks, but the two rooms now hold 80. There are narrow, windowless cloak rooms in which

Ex-State Officials Map Pleas on Bribery Charges

CARNEY, JUDY INDICTED BY GRAND JURORS

Two Others Accused as Probe of Ohio Securities Firms in Cincy, Toledo Ends.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Edward T. Carney, former chief of the state securities division, and Edwin Judy, former division attorney-examiner faced bribery indictments today as a result of a Franklin county grand jury investigation into operations of Vossler & Vossler, Cincinnati securities firm, and the defunct Toledo Guaranty Corp.

Named in the same indictments, returned late yesterday, were James A. Bolinger of Fremont and Elmer W. Vossler of Findlay. The charges were based on information furnished by present securities Chief Dan T. Moore after an investigation of securities practices in Ohio.

Those indicted were expected to enter pleas early next week.

Bolinger, former examiner in the division, was accused of aiding and abetting Carney and Judy in soliciting and accepting a $2,500 bribe from William R. Parmele and John L. Rossel, president and vice president of Toledo Guaranty, to influence registration of that concern's stock in 1936.

Accused of Stock "Deal."

Vossler, partner in the Cincinnati firm, was charged with offering a bribe to Carney and Judy by giving them approximately $3,000 worth of Ohio Mines, Inc., stock to influence them in granting application for a dealer's license in 1935.

At a public hearing in April Moore received testimony that Vossler & Vossler acquired Ohio Mines stock for 20 cents a share and sold it for $2. A former division examiner testified that the division had licensed the firm against the advice of Cincinnati securities dealers. When the license expired last Jan. 6, Moore declined to renew it.

Franklin County Prosecutor Ralph Bartlett said that Toledo Guaranty had been "passed by the division and authorized to sell in Ohio $1,000,000 in stock of this concern, on Oct. 23, 1936, although shortly before that time the corporation was wholly insolvent and had outstanding more than $100,000 in rubber checks.

Five of Toledo's Guaranty's officials were sentenced May 10 to prison terms of five to 38 years on fraud charges. Bolinger also was indicted at Toledo on a charge of soliciting a bribe from the company.

Carney resigned from the division last summer when he was accused of bribery in connection with stock of the Consolidated Motors Vorp. of Lima. Subsequently he was acquitted by a Franklin county jury.

Holt Says He'll Urge Senate To Oppose 3rd Term

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Holt (D-W Va), an administration critic, said today he would ask the 1939 senate to express formal opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt.

He had intended to introduce such a resolution during the last session, he added, but had held it up.

Holt explained the resolution would be similar to one which the senate passed, 56 to 26, while Calvin Coolidge was president in 1928

That resolution was introduced by Senator La Follette (Prog. Wis.) and was considered after Coolidge issued his famous "I do not choose to run" statement.

"I don't see why the members who voted for the 1928 resolution wouldn't vote for it now," Holt commented.

Fear 5 Boys Drowned In Lake Erie Storm

Up and Down THE STREET

The expression "he's mean enough to steal from the blind" long has been regarded as the epitome of meanness, but Mansfield has at least one person who is just that contemptible. In the WPA blind school, which is held each Thursday at the Salvation Army, is a girl who is being taught to sew without the benefit of her eyes. She has worked patiently on a little sheer cotton dress, trying to envision it as she sewed. She knew it was a pretty dress and she was eager to finish it. Yesterday, while the blind class was at lunch, a thief sneaked into the class room and stole the dress. Perhaps the thief may have a change of heart if he reads this and return the loot.

An interesting reminder of newspaperdom of 40 years ago came to light recently when Mrs. Maud Lee Ross of Toledo found a subscription receipt for the Mansfield News among her mother's effects. The receipt was signed by "H. E. G," which were the initials of Harriet E. Gibson (now Mrs. Harriet Mansfield, Park avenue west) who was on the subscription desk at that time.

Pope Asks Why Duce Should Follow Nazi Race Policy.

CASTEL GANDOLFO—(U.P.)—Pope Pius criticized Italy today for adopting a policy of racial nationalism along the lines of that of Nazi Germany.

It was the second time this month that the Holy Father has criticized Italy's trend toward anti-semitism and it was reported that he might soon issue an encyclical on the subject.

Addressing a group of student pilgrims from the college of propagation, the pontiff said:

"We ask ourselves why Italy, with disgraceful imitation, felt it necessary to copy Germany."

The pope told the students he received an important communication today, but he declined to reveal its nature.

ORDERS FORD TO HIRE BACK 50

NLRB Examiner Rules Company Illegally Discharged Men, Hits 'Interference.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A labor board trial examiner ruled today that the Ford Motor company had violated the Wagner labor act by "spying" and discrimination at its Buffalo, N. Y., assembly plant.

The examiner, Francis M. Shea, recommended that the company rehire 50 CIO unionists and cease "interfering" with union activities.

Shea, listing eight methods of alleged violation of the law said the company's service men had spied on union meetings and on men at work. At the same time, he added, it "disseminated propaganda" to discourage membership in the United Automobile Workers of America.

The findings were based on a 12-day hearing in Buffalo last winter on charges of unfair labor practice brought by the union.

Shea held that 17 men were discharged for union activity and 33 others were not re-employed after a layoff because of their union membership. He dismissed discrimination charges with respect to 12 other workers.

Among the findings of unfair practices, his report listed the participation by Ford service men in discharges, which the examiner said was an unusual procedure. The service men correspond to company police. They took charge of men notified of dismissal and led them from the plant, testimony brought out.

Identified by Ohio officers, as Thomas C. Long, 57, former Xenia realtor and insurance man, was arrested at his West York home last night on his return from a business trip. He was known here as J. B. Jones.

He waived extradition and started back within a few hours with Sheriff George P. Henkle and Deputy Sheriff Herman Haller, and Prosecuting Attorney Morris Shoup, all of Greene county, O.

"I'm glad you came," authorities quoted Long as saying. "This is the happiest moment I have had in the past seven and a half years of my life. I want to go back to Xenia and straighten things out."

Long's identification resulted from a remark during a conversation with his employers, Fred Perkins, York battery manufacturer.

Perkins wrote to Xenia regarding "Jones" and was informed that no one answering the description had lived there recently. Peerkins then sent a photograph of his employe and it was immediately identified as that of Long, police said.

Ohio authorities arrived here several days ago with extradition papers. They enlisted the aid of Sheriff John Billet of York county but waited until Long returned from a business trip before making the arrest.

Perkins said he would go to Ohio to testify for his employe.

"I never saw a straighter fellow," Perkins said. "He was an inspiration to me in my business. I will gladly go to Xenia and testify in his behalf."

Perkins several years ago defied the NRA and spent some time in jail where he directed his business.

ENDS REVOLT

Cretan Government Crushes Uprising of Strikers.

ATHENS—(INS)—A short-lived revolt on the island of Crete, ancient seat of Corsairs and frequent spawning-ground for rebellion, has been "completely crushed," the governor of Crete announced this afternoon.

The rebillion occurred when 400 men struck against the government and seized the town of Canea.

The Cretan governor sent a message to Premier Metaxas advising him that order had been restored in Canea and all public buildings reoccupied by legal authorities.

The insurrectionists evacuated the town and fled, he advised.

COAST GUARDS PUSH INTENSIVE HUNT FOR BOAT

Shore Line Between Sandusky and Huron Scoured After Mid-Afternoon Gale.

BULLETIN

LORAIN—(INS)—The five boys missing since they set out from Rye Beach late yesterday in a rented boat have been found safe, coastguard headquarters here was advised today by Marblehead coastguardsmen.

(By Associated Press)

SANDUSKY—Five unidentified boys who disappeared in a 16-foot metal rowboat as a storm lashed Lake Erie were the object today of an intensive search by coast guards and shore patrols.

Two coast guard crews from the Marblehead and Lorain stations, hunted the youths and their craft by boat throughout the night. Nearly 100 men, led by local and county officers, scoured the shore line between here and Huron, 10 miles distant.

Sheriff William Souter said early today no trace of the boys or the rowboat had been found.

Rents Them Boat.

Mrs. Zetta Dickinson, owner of a store at Rye beach, midway between here and Huron, rented the boat and one pair of oars to the youths for the day at 11 a. m yesterday. She said two of them were about 18 years old and the others not more than 12.

Rye beach resorters reported seeing the boys diving from the boat about 100 yards off shore at noon. All apparently were good swimmers.

A mid-afternoon gale and rain storm churned the lake into treacherous waves which Capt. William Holmes of the Marblehead station said would have capsized an ordinary lifeboat.

Authorities ashore instituted a house-to-house canvass in an effort to determine the boys' identity.

Marshal Fred Klein of Huron directed a search of the shore line from Rye beach to Huron. They also hunted a mile up the Huron river.

Two boys, aged 15 and 17, were rescued near Cleveland late yesterday when a 56-mile gale overturned their 18-foot sailboat.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Vander Meer's Reputed Demand Recalls Others Who 'Cut Themselves In'

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The Cincinnati Post reports that Johnny Vander Meer, the young athlete who pitched two no-hit games for the Reds, is demanding 50 per cent of the proceeds of newspaper and magazine articles in praise of himself, for which he supplies the material.

Cincinnati papers are happily exempt from this charge, and he will gladly give them interviews free. Nevertheless, certain Cincinnati newspaper writers are deeply hurt, feeling that Vander Meer has snapped at a hand extended to pet him and munched it clear up to the shoulder. Not overpaid at best, some of them have had a chance to make a few dollars spreading the fame of a hero, and the young man's demands would cut their $10 and $20 fees in half.

Some of my colleagues seem to think that this is something new in commercialism, but I can assure them that Johnny Vander Meer is following distinguished precedent Only recently, President Roosevelt placed on sale, as a by-product of the distinguished office which he adorns, the record of his conversations with the press, and, only as an afterthought and apparently in response to criticism, announced that the proceeds would be devoted to some public work.

Jess Willard, when he was heavyweight champion of the world, once declined to give your correspondent his thoughts on the eve of a struggle with Frank Moran, which turned out to be an exhibition of mass reticence, on the ground that Mr. Hearst was paying him $50,000 a year for the exclusive right to this commodity. Greater thinkers have been paid less, but your correspondent had to admit Mr. Willard's mother did not raise a foolish son, in raising Jess, when he said: "Why should I tell you what I think for nothing when Mr. Hearst is paying me $50,000 a year to tell him what I think?"

* * *

But your correspondent's mother did not raise any foolish children, either, and in a subtle battle of wits between two intellectual titans, Mr Willard was first diverted into trivialities, then exasperated into a discussion of his plan of battle which was presently given eternal permanence in the five-star finals under a line which truthfully said that the following thoughts had been expressed at a late hour today "by Jess Willard."

Some celebrities are just that way.

There was a mysterious woman witness in a murder case around here a few years ago who got $20 from a journalist for an exclusive signed story of what she had seen on the night of the carnage, and thereafter told a fresh version of what she had seen—all in a flash of lightning, incidentally—every night for about a week. The lady had never been in literature before, but she showed a distinct change of style from day to day, and she had the imagination of a born fictioneer.

Papa Dionne, whose sudden rise to celebrity might have caught a less wary man flatfooted, brilliantly foiled all who would have chiseled a profit from his own remarkable achievement without declaring him in. He was at his best, perhaps, in his colloquy with a refrigerator agent who wanted to install a magnificent ice machine, free, to cool the children's milk, in return for a photograph of the quintuplets and Papa admiring this miracle.

"But thees machine," the agent argued, attempting pidgin French, "thees machine, she's good for you and the enfants. Good for you. Good. Good."

"Yeah," said Papa Dionne. "Pretty good for you, too, eh?"

But fame is fleeting, and perhaps in a year Johnny Vander Meer will be pleased to see his name in print, even in the fine type of the record books. When "Trudy" Ederle returned from her victory over the English Channel, it took hours to persuade Dudley Field Malone, her manager, to let her accept, free, a red roadster on which she had set her heart, in return for her picture at the wheel of the same.

Dudley wouldn't think twice on the same proposition today. He himself might even accept a red roadster free if approached with dignity.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

(Sam Hellman, the Twentieth Century-Fox writer and humorist, pinch-hits today for Columnist Robbin Coons, who is on vacation.)

By SAM HELLMAN

HOLLYWOOD—Having spent several years as a newspaperman and magazine writer and another several years in pictures, I am thoroughly prepared to set myself up as a pundit, and between sitting around on a dais raptly regarding my navel, to deliver all manner of advice to those writers in other fields who are hungering for the flash pots of Hollywood. And I am the better prepared to give this advice since nobody has asked for it Nothing is so fruity as unsolicited advice.

Having arrived in Hollywood and settled down in a five hundred thousand dollar house with onyx swimming pools and pheasant coverts the new writer will be shocked to learn that there is no market whatever for such gifts as he may have of stringing words together into a mellifluous whole and of plumbing depths of character. The picture business will have none of them. Nor will it turn handsprings over subtlety, nuances, or fine shadings of irony and satire. The only thing a writer has of possible value is the gift of telling an interesting story

And you don't tell that story with words—you tell it with a Camera. If you can't see it, it just isn't there. Dialogue? Of course, there's dialogue in pictures—plenty of it—much too much of it. But you can put this down in your little red book: Dialogue is never the strength of a picture, it is its weakness. A motion picture is just what the two words say—a picture that moves. Occasionally, words may help it move, but the first lesson, my children, is: If it can't be written with a Camera, don't write it.

Secondly: The new writer in these parts might just as well leave his precious individuality, his artistic integrity at home in his other suit. A short story, a book, or a play is a product of one mind. A motion picture is the product of many minds and much machinery. And you'd even be surprised how little of a writer's own work is later found in a can of film He's lucky if the girl is still called Mary. In fact, if there's still a girl.

Thirdly: The writer who comes to Hollywood with the idea that he is writing down to audiences is on his way out before he gets a chance to use his onyx swimming pool. It's true that pictures are made for the masses. Practically no company aims a picture at the president of Harvard. Come to think of it, how many of the great stories of the world have been aimed at him? What makes a great story great is the fact that it has universal appeal. Universal. I said—not university. I am quite certain that no writer of great stories ever had the feeling that he was writing down to his readers.

So, remember, your only job is to tell a story, and the more visually you tell that story, the more it will be understood and appreciated.

What's Answer To Co-Ed Necking?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority On Problems Of Love And Marriage.

It's taken for granted that co-eds "pet."

(A coe-ed is, of course a girl student at a college attended by both boys and girls.)

But are co-eds, after all, more given to petting than girls whose boy friends are not so near at hand?

Suppose we look into this.

A co-ed lives, in a sea of masculinity. All day long, youths of her own age are on the spot, to be heard, seen and, if you like flirted with.

Does this mean that she wallows in romance from morning until night? That she always has a string of dates a yard long? That she has to fight for the chance to open a book and prepare her lessons?

Well, to tell the truth, it doesn't work out exactly that way. And if you've ever lived next door to a group of cousins of a different sex from your own, perhaps you'll see what I mean. Boys and girls both like a little mystery in each other. The boy student can't possibly regard the co-ed as mysterious. She isn't.

Then ,a boy thinks it adds to his prestige to flaunt dates with girls who aren't so easy to secure as a co-ed. Somebody from a fashionable finishing-school will do—all shine and fluff. Or somebody who lives idly at home, coming to life at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and following every precept of the beauty shop. Pet that sort of girl, and the other fellows envy you.

But a co-ed has to get up early. In the morning you see her with limp curls, and minus rouge and lipstick. She's a sturdy, beefsteak eating human being, not a tantalizing dream-creature.

In spite of these drawbacks, a pretty, lively co-ed isn't forced to live an entirely man-less life. Usually she succeeds in getting herself dated up for a considerable share of her free time. And I think you can't blame her if she makes the most of these opportunities.

You see, such a girl is more or less on a perpetual strain. All the social life she has, she must struggle for. She's got to show in some way that she's just as attractive as other types of girls; that she is, above all, just as feminine, as the girls who are visible only after they are all dolled up for the evening.

So, when she secures a good, promising date, she by no means takes the boy and his attentions for granted. She tries to make herself as charming and as companionable as she possibly can. Dance? Why of course, if that's what she likes. She's rather proud of her dancing. Go for a drive or sit outdoors in the moonlight? She's ready for either.

If the evening is a success, a tinge of romance creeps into it. Why, this is a grand girl, thinks the boy to himself. Would she let me make a little love to her? And he makes the attempt.

The co-ed who, under such conditions, wouldn't let herself be petted, would be more than human. Here's a boy whom she honestly likes, and who likes her, who even seems to feel a tenderness for her. Shall she let him think she's prudish, squeamish, old-maidish? Or shall she be gentle and responsive and a little cuddly? Shall she, in fact, agree to a petting-session? Which is just what she does.

As you see, there's a lot to be said for an exchange of kisses that comes about in this innocent, even idyllic way, and that owes nothing to alcohol or to boredom or to excessive frivolity.

Ten to one, two such young people as this will find, before long they're in love with each other. Before long they'll be engaged, and the next thing you know they'll be married. And a co-ed marriage is usually a fine thing.

The coquettish rounded yokes that form so sweet a neckline may be in self-fabric, or a contrast—with dainty cuffs matching. Pattern 9834 may be ordered only in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

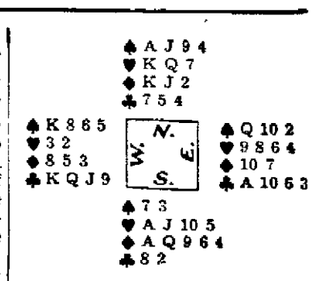
By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

SAVE THE LONG TRUMPS

WHEN YOU have only four trumps in the closed hand opposite three in dummy, it is highly dangerous usually to ruff with the four-card length so you can no longer protect yourself against a four-trump bunch in the hand of a defender. Sometimes you have no option in the matter, but frequently you can find a way to save the long trumps.

North and South reached a contract of 4 Hearts on this deal and West started the defense with the lead of the club K. When the 6 was played by East, West continued the suit for two more rounds. South ruffed the third with the heart 5. He then led out three trumps and was disappointed to find East held one more. The diamonds were next tried and on the third round East ruffed. He cashed his club A and switched to a spade. West's K forced the A and declarer lost the next two tricks to East.

Instead of ruffing the third round of clubs, South should have tossed one of his spades. With the set up diamond suit, he could then have afforded to take four rounds of trumps and in that way only the three club tricks would have been lost.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

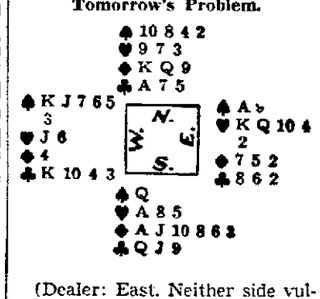
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the best play for South's 3-No Trump contract, West having bid spades and East hearts and the heart jack being led?

Peaches Can Be Used Many Ways

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

WE ARE in the midst of a grand peach season, so we are ready for some new ways of preparing the luscious peach, such as baked peaches, or using them in a compote or pudding sauce.

Peach pudding sauce requires one cup sugar, one tablespoon butter, two egg yolks, juice and rind of a lemon, one-eighth teaspoon each mace and cloves, two tablespoons glycerine, four ripe peaches cut into small pieces. Stir sugar and butter together in double boiler. Add lightly-beaten egg yolks, mace, cloves, rind and lemon juice. Cook, beating constantly with rotary beater until thick and foamy. Pour glycerine over the peaches and blend well. Add to sauce and serve while hot.

Baked Peaches.

Baked peaches, served either hot or cold, are delicious, a welcome addition to fine desserts. Ingredients include six large peaches, four tablespoons glycerine, tablespoon butter, one-half teaspoon mace, two tablespoons lemon juice, grated rind of a lemon, one cup sugar and one-half cup water. Peel peaches and rub them with glycerine. Place in covered baking dish, placing over them any remaining glycerine, also the butter, water, sugar, mace and lemon juice and rind. Cover and bake in 400 F. oven until peaches are tender.

Peach cordial is a delight served with whipped cream as a dessert, and it is also nice served as a meat relish. To make it you'll need six large, ripe peaches, juice and grated rind of half a lemon, one-half teaspoon mace, one-half cup orange juice, one-half cup granulated sugar, one-half cup water and four tablespoons glycerine. Peel and halve peaches. Dip in glycerine. Boil sugar, water, mace, orange and lemon juice for about five minutes. Add lemon rind and peaches with remainder of glycerine and cook carefully until tender but not broken. Remove peaches to serving dish and continue cooking syrup for 10 or 15 minutes longer. Pour syrup over peaches, and cool.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

At my mother-in-law's defiant assertion that she did not intend to stir a step from the kitchen, the room nearest the wood road down which were speeding the mysterious guests heralded by my father in his code message to me, the "mingled emotions" mirrored in the faces of her auditors were a ludicrous study.

Katie, with her hostility to my mother-in-law completely in abeyance, was frankly admiring and sympathetic. Her awe of Dicky compelled her to restrain her own belligerence, but I knew that had he been absent, she also would have trumpeted defiance, for she has no inferiority complex whatever where police officers are concerned.

The expression on the face of the captain of the state troopers was a mixture of astonishment and truculence at the defiance to his authority, tempered with the realization of the age, social position and infirmities of the woman who had just issued her ultimatum.

Seeks Her Help.

But Dicky was neither truculent nor sympathetic, nor was he astonished, for he has had long experience with his mother and her little ways. After a cursory glance as she "spoke her piece" he did not glance at her at all, but fixed his eyes on me with an appeal in them to which I was well used. It said as plainly as speech.

"Do what you can with her. I throw up my hands.

I had little hope of doing anything with her, but as a first move, I spoke to Katie with a peremptoriness I rarely used to her, realizing that I was basely relying upon my mother-in-law's approval of that attitude as a lever in my dealing with her.

"Go into the dining room immediately, Katie," I said, "and wait for me. I will come in directly."

There was heartbroken reluctance in Katie's eyes, behind which flared defiance, but she did not quite dare to disobey. And as she went out of the room at a snail's pace, my mother-in-law glared at me.

Madge Has Scheme.

"Do you mean to say, Margaret," she began, but with a swift flanking movement, I placed myself squarely in front of her so that the captain could see neither of our faces.

"Don't let him hear!" I muttered, out of the corner of my mouth, in the prison fashion Lillian and I learned during our secret service work in the World war, and which my mother-in-law rather shamefacedly set herself to learn when she later was told about it.

"I have a splendid scheme. Come away with me quickly."

For a long second she struggled between truculence and curiosity. Then curiosity won, and as she took my proffered arm and swept from the room, she called back defiantly:

"I'm only going a minute. I shall be back."

There was no answer from either man. I was sure Dicky had given the captain a signal to keep still, and I hurried my doughty mother-in-law into the dining room where K ie stood, a most disconsolate figure.

"Oh! Missis Graham!" she began, but I cut her short.

"Put on a coat, tie a scarf over your head," I ordered, "and bring scarves and motor coats for Madam Graham and for me from the closet downstairs. If you hurry, you'll be upstairs as soon as we are. You can come up the kitchen stairs if we're on these."

"Box Seats" on Balcony.

"Oh-h—I see!" she caroled, but I quelled her with a stern look.

"Don't waste time talking," I told her. "Hurry!"

She dashed out of the room, and Mother Graham looked at me approvingly.

"That's the way to handle her," she commented, and then added hastily: "But what's this wonderful scheme of yours?"

"Box seats at this party, if we hurry." I told her, smiling, and putting my hand beneath her arm. "You know that little balcony overlooking the kitchen door and the road up to it?"

For answer, she set off toward the stairs at a pace that surprised me.

"Hurry!" she breathed, and I had to hold her back or she would have been breathless when she reached the top of the stairs.

Katie was at the door of the balcony as soon as we were, and then with motor coats and scarves protecting us from the chill autumn night air, we crept noiselessly along the little balcony until we reached the rail.

We were just in time. A large car drove up to the kitchen door from the wood road. The guards materialized out of the shadows and surrounded it, and then from it stepped a tall man who helped two women to alight, and then all three assisted in aiding a third woman, evidently an invalid, to get out of the car.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, July 30.

This may be a day in which intrigue, adventure, romance and private affairs are paramount, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. There may be much stirring in the sentimental and emotional life, with unconventional or subtle angles difficult to interpret. But travel and change are shown. Minor disputes are forecast, but in a large way the "love life" is the predominant interest and activity.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which the intimate, private, social, domestic or affectionate angles seem to be all that matter. There are indications of change and excitement in this connection, with romance, intrigue and peculiarly irregular or subtle situations to be encountered.

THEATER

HOLLYWOOD Notes: Robert Young has been signed to a long term contract by M-G-M as the result of his work in "Three Comrades" and "The Toy Wife." Young has had a long, hard climb in pictures since his first appearance in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" with Helen Hayes, but he's firmly entrenched in popularity now. . . . Freddie Bartholomew and Judy Garland will be teamed in "Listen Darling," an original screen story by Katharine Brush, in which two bright youngsters pick out a husband for their widowed mother. . . . Garbo's "Camille" with Robert Taylor, was chosen the best box office picture among foreign made films is Paris. The favorite "foreign" stars of Paris movie goers are Clark Gable, William Powell, Robert Taylor, Joan Crawford and Greta Garbo.

Data on Danielle

Just in case Danielle Darrieux should make a lasting place for herself in American films, here's a bit about her—at least it's what her press agent gives out: She was born in Bordeaux, France, May 1, 1917. Her father, a French World war veteran, was a famous eye specialist. She was educated in private schools and studied the violincello at the Paris Conservatory of Music. Saw an ad in a paper, when she was 14, for a child actor in "LeBal." Answered the ad and got the job. Is married to Henry Decoin, French scenarist. Was a big star before she was 21. Her American debut is made in "The Rage of Paris" with Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Mischa Auer, Helen Broderick and Louis Hayward. It's at the Ohio.

Welcome Stranger.

Johnnie Russell, a cunning youngster, holds a fair share of the interest in "Always Goodbye," in which Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall are co-starred, with the support of Ian Hunter, Cesar Romero, Binnie Barnes and Lynn Bari. Johnnie is a newcomer and a very young one, who gives a good account of himself in the role of the small son of Miss Stanwyck. Much of the heart interest revolves around her efforts to win back her son after he has been adopted by a foster father. As in "Stella Dallas," the actress again makes a sacrifice for her child, but this time to keep him. "Always Goodbye" is the Madison attraction.

Two Mystery Films.

The two features at the Majestic provide mystery at it is worked out in England and again as it is solved in the western manner. Scotland Yard, famous English detective and police system, is the background for "Blake of Scotland Yard," with Ralph Byrd in the leading role. Tom Tyler manages to solve the western mystery in "Orphans of The Pecos," in which there is a murder. A ventriloquist and a dummy who looks strangely like Mr. McCarthy, are important factors in solving the murder. Jeanne Martel, Howard Bryant and Forrest Taylor are in the supporting cast.

Three Mesquiteers.

These ventriloquist acts are becoming a habit in Western films, for the Three Mesquiteers have been using one for several episodes. Max Terhune, one of the Mesquiteers, has a dummy who adds comedy touches to their many exciting escapades. In "Call The Mesquiteers," Terhune, Ray Corrigan and Bob Livingston are called upon to display their sharpest wits, best riding, fastest shooting and riding, for they are suspicioned of having committed a series of crimes. Eastern gangsters try to work their wiley ways on the folks of the Wide Open Spaces and in the end run afoul of the Mesquiteers. "Lone Wolf In Paris" with Francis Lederer and Frances Drake provides mystery and action of an entirely different sort at the Ritz.

Yankees Run Bases Worse Than Dodgers

Business Off 50 Per Cent at Galento's Joint Since Tony Has Been Laid Up In Philly.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ambers and Armstrong may lay one of those great big eggs from a financial standpoint. . . . In the four night games at Ebbets Field so far the well-known Dodgers have pulled in 117,369 fans and got the club out of the red. . . . Jimmy Johnston flew to the coast to make arrangements for Bob Pastor's fight with Maxie Rosenbloom next week. . . . One expert writes the Yanks are running the bases worse than the Dodgers of old these days.

Joe Engel's Chattanooga ball club is ready to start a fund to buy Corrigan a plane if anybody will send in any dough. . . . Old "Showman Joe" probably would put up all the potatoes himself if he could guarantee Corrigan would make his first personal appearance in the Lookout ball orchard. . . . Some of the schools in the South which have been trying to be amateur (and stay in the football biz) will untie the bankroll and go after the freshmen in a big way this summer. . . . Business is off 50 per cent at Tony Galento's joint since Tony has been laid up and can't get around to bellow greetings to the customers.

Charlie Grimm probably will have another big league connection next summer. . . . Around Broadway they'll bet you John Henry Lewis doesn't get to first base in his proposed suit against the New York athletic commission—which is to say it'll never reach the courts. . . . Young Bobby Riggs has unsheathed his racquets in no less than 18 tournaments this year already.

* * *

Dan Daniel, who usually has the straight dope in his World-Telegram column, says the Yanks once turned down Gabby Hartnett for $2,500 because he "couldn't hit." . . . Haw! . . . Dutch Clark of the Detroit Lions will be starting his 15th season as a football player when his team begins practice this year. . . . And for the first time in years the New York Giants will play all their games in the east. . . . Did you see where Jack Beckett, pro at the Youngtakah club near Nutley, N. J., came up with his first ace the other day after 35 years of golfing? . . .

Say Armstrong Has Lost Boxing Urge.

LOTS of folk think Henry Armstrong has lost the boxing urge and will have to be made to fight from now on. . . . Anyway, he's been so low at Pompton Lakes Manager Eddie Mead has ordered him on the road. . . . Some of the New York papers are blasting the boxing commish for refusing to recognize young Al Hostak. . . . After all, they argue, it wasn't the kid's fault Steele got in bad by running out of a challenge from Apostoli.

Johnny Allen Faces Visitors in Opening Game.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Johnny Allen, winner of 12 straight games before he was beaten last week by the Boston Red Sox, was to attempt to start a new winning streak here today when he went to the mound for the Cleveland Indians in the first contest of a series with the Washington Senators. Kendall Chase, youthful southpaw, was to work for Washington.

A downpour caused the Indians' game with the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday to be called at the end of the third inning. Neither team had scored when rain halted play.

Denny Galehouse, upon whom Manager Oscar Vitt is counting for regular service in the Tribe's stretch drive, was in the box. He had permitted three singles and walked two men. Edgar Smith, on the mound for the Athletics, had not been nicked for a safety but had walked three men.

Although unable to finish their contest the Indians moved to within one game of the pace-setting New York Yankees, who were beaten by St. Louis.

LUTZ ELIMINATED

LONDON, Ont. — (AP) — Dick Lutz of Ashland, O., was eliminated from the Canadian amateur golf tournament yesterday. The semi-finals today pit Sandy Somerville of London against Ven Savage of Magna, Utah, and Ed Kingsley, fellow townsman of Savage, against Ted Adams of Columbia, Mo.

Cabs Play Musille Club Instead of Beers Today.

Due to the district softball tournament opening at League park Sunday, today's scheduled series game between the De-Luxe Cabs and Beeber-Ross Beers at Johns park has been postponed. Both teams are entered in the tourney. Manager Ben Feeman of the Cabs said the date for the postponed game has not been decided.

The Cabs will meet the Musille Cigars at Johns park today instead of the Beers, Feeman said.

All nine teams entered in the district softball tournament will play at least one game in the opening rounds of the elimination scheduled at League park Sunday.

Only the winner of the first game billed at noon will be forced to make more than one appearance, District Commissioner Donald D. Cram announced today.

The first game on the program will pit the Hartman Electrics of Mansfield against the Faultless Rubbers of Ashland, and the winner will face the Timken Roller Bearings of Mt. Vernon in the third game at 2:30 p. m.

The DeLuxe Cabs of Mansfield and Pitkin's Provisions of Mt. Vernon tangle in the second game at 1:30. The Siler Hatcheries of Ashland and Marion Merchants collide at 3:30, with the Beeber-Ross Beers of Mansfield meeting the Mt. Vernon Shellmar Products in the last game at 4:30.

All of the opening round games will be seven innings in length, as will the semi-final tilts scheduled Sunday, Aug. 7. The finals on the same date will be nine innings.

The winner of the tournament will represent this district in the state finals to be held late in August.

Miller Holds Spotlight In Heavy Racing Program

Drives Lady Zombelle, Jackie Grattan to Victories; Five Events on Closing Bill Today.

DELVIN MILLER, 23-year-old driver and trainer, has done right well for himself in the sulkey so far this season.

Probably the youngest horseman in the harness business, Miller won a pair of races in the Richland county fair meeting at the Fairground yesterday as one of the largest crowds ever to witness the track events as the Springmill street park looked on.

The three-day meeting comes to a close today, and Miller's charges are expected to figure very prominently in the purses before the dust of the five-race program is settled.

Registers Two Wins.

Miller, the white-haired boy of Alvella, Pa., reined Lady Zombelle, a bay filly owned by Mahlon H. Haines of York, Pa., to victory in the 2-year-old trot, which carried a purse of $480, in one of the hold-over races halted by rain on the opening day, and then came back to pilot Jackie Gratton, a bay gelding of the Butler, Pa., Biery stable, to victory in the regularly scheduled 2:24 trot.

Outside of the 3-year-old stake races, the events yesterday were reduced to two heats to permit the completion of the program as scheduled and Miller's Lady Zombelle took the trot in straight heats.

In the 2:24 pace, Miller guided Jackie Grattan to a win in the first heat and finished third in the second and last heat won by Sunny Worth, Bob Plaxico's Andover, O., steed, but was declared the winner of the race because of winning in the fastest time.

Miller finished fifth and second with Ripley, a black gelding, in the 2:20 pace and seventh and fifth with Astute, a bay colt, in the 2:25 trot.

Hal B. Direct, a black gelding owned and driven by F. J. Saint of Wallaceburg, Ont., took the 2:20 pace in straight heats, and Deep Run Patsy, a black mare owned and reined by Joe Rick of Newcastle, Pa., took the 2:25 trot held over from the previous day.

Hal B. Direct made his first appearance in the United States in the 2:20 pace yesterday, and served notice on his rivals by coasting the second mile in 2:06. It was the Canadian horse's sixth victory in as many starts this year.

In the other race postponed from the first day, F. S. Callahan's champion black colt, Callie G., driven by Gabe Cartnal, won the first two heats to win the 3-year-old pace, and broke in the third heat near the finish to finish sixth. Stelledale, owned by L. E. Greer of Newark, won the last heat.

Wins Stake Race.

Dalewin, a brown filly of "Hump" Morrison's Sandusky stable, came through with colors flying in the 2-year-old stake on yesterday's regularly scheduled program, winning both heats in fine fashion.

Meredith of the Millikan stables, Youngstown, dominated the 3-year-old trot, winning all three heats with Hunter in the sulky. Alvarado, Walter Michaels' Bucyrus horse, finished second in the first two heats.

Pitcher Helps At Plate With Three Homers

Walters set down 13 via the strike out route, issued only four walks and yielded five hits as he hurled the North End Merchants to a 10 to 3 softball victory over the Barnes Bees at Johns park yesterday. But Walters didn't only do a fine job of pitching. He also hit well. The young pitching star blasted out three home runs in four trips to lead his teammates at the plate. His circuit drives accounted for enough runs to beat the Bees. Rudolph of the Merchants also hit a home run.

ISLES PROSPER

South Seas' Imports for 1937 Million More Than In '36.

SUVA, Fiji Islands—(INS)—Not only have these dreamy South Sea isles all the romance historically attached to them—they also have prosperity. Figures released here showed the Fiji group doing a brisk busines in foreign trade. Imports for 1937 had a total value of more than $8,800,000, compared ith $7,500,000 in 1936.

CULT 'NEIGHBOR' TO ROOSEVELTS

Father Divine to Establish 'Rural Heaven' on Farm Near President's.

friend, "Franklin," would like his new neighbors. A distant relative of the president by marriage, he engaged in a newspaper argument with him six years ago as to which estate, the Roosevelt or the Spencer was entitled to the name "Krum Elbow." Since then he has found New Deal policies distasteful and has been an outspoken, though private critic of the president.

"Father Divine is a fine, self-respecting person and his followers are honest people," Spencer said. "He has a policy of not allowing anyone come into his church who are in debt or who won't work.

"Now if Roosevelt will only listen to Divine, he will learn that "Father" is doing more for the country than he is. Look at this contrast: Divine won't permit any debts. Roosevelt is ruining the country with debts."

Spencer discussed Mr. Roosevelt in familiar and often critical terms. Asked if his project was born of a desire to annoy the president, he said: "This is a farming proposition."

He said his interest was social and experimental rather than financial. A successful importer and heir of a wealthy family, he is connected by marriage with the Vanderbilts and British nobility.

In the deed which will be filed in Kingston, N. Y., today, Father Divine is not listed as the actual owner, however.

It was reported the estate would be populated in 10 days by more than 3,000 cult members, who would make the trip from New York City in a chartered excursion boat, and avail themselves of the spacious orchards, vineyards and 28 buildings.

EARLY BIRDS

They 'Catch' All Worms Angler Fattened For Fishing.

ENTERPRISE, Ore. — (INS) — Robins aren't popular around the home of A. B. Stockdale. Stockdale planted a can of angle worms in a shady spot in his back yard, and all spring he fattened the worms for fishing purposes. His plans went sour when a flock of robbins discovered the plot of worms.

along with the harness racing program.

An added feature to this event was promised when Mayor Charles Crum of Greenwich in Huron county, tossed out a challenge to compete with the Richland winner.

Richland mayors who will compete are C. M. Hunter of Mansfield, D. B. Young of Shelby, L. W. Smith of Lucas, O. G. Misamore of Lexington and C. F. Lybarger of Ganges. Ganges has no mayor but for the milking contest it will have an ex-officio one in Lybarger.

Each mayor will march beside his cow to the front of the grandstand. Drummers and trumpeters will lead the way to the contest platform.

Tonight's vaudeville revue will include acrobatic stunts, comedy acts and dancing by a chorus of girls from the Gus Sun vaudeville agency at Springfield.

A fireworks display at 9:30 p. m. will ring down the curtain on the 1938 exposition.

Fair officials today said that because of the record entries in all forms of exhibits, judging for premiums would not be completed until today.

Premium winners at the flower show, household fabric show and in sheep exhibits were announced yesterday. The winner list will be found on Page 15.

LOTTERIES OLD

Legalized Form Sought In New Hampshire In 1778.

KEENE, N. H.—(INS)—As early at 1778 a legalized lottery was sought in New Hampshire. STOCKS RALLY UNDER LEAD OF STEELS, MOTORS

Gains of Point Added to Previous Session's Recovery From Sharp Decline.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Rallying tendencies persisted in the stock market today, with gains of about a point being added to the previous session's recovery from Wednesday's sharp reaction.

Mid-way through the first hour, under the lead of steels and motors, the list moved up on a broad front, then turned quiet before noon.

Auto accessories, coppers chemicals and rubbers also were prominent on the advance.

Included among the stocks to show extreme gains of a point or more were Chrysler, Johns-Manville, Briggs, Union Pacific and Goodyear. Philip Morris continued its spectacular advance into new high ground on a jump of more than 4 points, while Allied Chemical rose 2.

Commercial solvents was a low-priced feature, running up more than a point on an active turnover to a new high for the year.

U. S. Gypsum was backward for the second successive day, losing more than a point before meeting support. Oliver Farm and Case in the farm implements also lagged.

WHY THE FUSS?

Canadian Premier Surprised By Alarm Over Missing Plane.

SKAGWAY Alaska —(AP)— His 8,000-mile airplane tour of Canada and Alaska interrupted by stormy weather, Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario expressed surprise today at the "fuss" his absence Wednesday night had created.

Hepburn's plane was forced down at Carcross Yukon Territory, on a flight from Whitehorse to Juneau. He arrived here late yesterday by train.

GIRL FALLS TO DEATH

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Betty Budai, 12, played hide-and-seek in a neighbors home last night. She climbed to a third-floor window, lost her balance and plunged to her death.

funds for a school in Weller township without authority from the Union rural (Weller-Franklin townships) board.

Ralph Osbun, president of the Union board, and two other members, asked for Robinson's resignation at a county board meeting last month.

The county board voted to ask for an investigation of the charges against Robinson by Prosecutor Marriott, who was out of the city today and could not be reached.

Hunt said, however, that the prosecutor had been working on the investigation and would have his report ready late today or Saturday morning. The board is scheduled to meet at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

"I have no comment to make in this matter, but I may have some very definite statements after Saturday's meeting," the county superintendent said.

Robinson had denied submitting the application for a PWA grant for a proposed school in the Union district, contending that the architect had filled out blanks he (Robinson) signed and sent them to the state PWA office.

Police today were holding for investigation three youths the oldest of which is 24, in connection with the theft of a battery from the automobile of W. W. Maxwell, 200 South Foster street, Wednesday night.

Police said they arrested the youths at their homes yesterday after it was learned that they had been seen in the vicinity of the garage where the car had been parked.

CHAPTER 2

The morning after Julian's call Noel started burning all her bridges. She was the type of girl who never did things by halves. When she found that her uncle was in financial difficulties she turned over to him $100,000 in cash and negotiable securities. This represented a year's income, and left her with a very small amount indeed.

Then Noel went shopping. She bought a cheap tweed suit, a pair of low-heeled oxfords, and a small felt hat. Then a few blouses of linen and near silk. Things in direct contrast to what she wore.

When she had finished shopping, she realized with a little thrill that she was close to the Medical Arts building where Julian's offices were located. So she went and waited just outside the big revolving doors, and it wasn't very long before she saw Julian coming through them, a pretty dark-haired girl beside him, talking animatedly.

He would have walked past Noel without seeing her, but she put out a hand and called his name. He stopped short and smiled. "Why, Noel, what a pleasant surprise!"

The dark girl stopped, waited a moment, then went on. There was something about the way she held her head that showed she wasn't any too pleased because Julian had stopped. "She's in love with him," Noel told herself, conscious of a sudden jealous pain.

Then she turned her eyes to Julian, "Thought you might take me to lunch."

"Gladly, only we'll have to go across the street, as I haven't much time."

They walked across the street. The De Luxe Cafe was one of those paper-napkin kind of places, Julian explained, but added that it was quite sanitary and the food was well prepared.

Noel looked about the neat white-tiled place with interest. This was something that belonged to Julian's world. The place where most of his meals were eaten, as she found out later.

As soon as they were seated, Noel told him that she had changed her plans about going to California, and later to Paris with her aunt.

Julian looked questioningly into the sweet, ardent face under the smart hat, which hadn't cost less than $35, though of course he hadn't any idea of its cost. He only knew in his man's vague way that it was a very fetching hat indeed and that it enhanced the delicate gold of Noel's hair and the dreamy blue of her eyes.

"You see," Noel went on blithely, "it just struck me that I know absolutely nothing of this city where I was born, and which my grandfather helped to build I haven't spent more than two weeks here since I was a child."

Julian did not meet her eyes. Perhaps he was afraid she could see that her news brought him an undeniable happiness. The thought of an ocean between himself and this slender girl, who meant a great deal more to him than he would acknowledge, had been disturbing, though he knew for his own peace of mind, it would be far better for her to go.

"You'll find it very dull here, I'm afraid," he said at last.

"Oh, no, I shan't," Noel said quickly. But her underlip was trembling slightly. She was thinking again of the pretty dark girl, who already had such a start over herself when it come to winning Julian's interest. Perhaps his love. Or at least they had seemed to be quite old friends. Perhaps they went to lunch together every day. So she began a little timidly, "That pretty girl who was with you — is she — I mean, are you—" but she couldn't finish. After all, it was a silly question to ask. But she wanted to know so very much.

Julian's eyes met hers frankly. "That's Ruth Chester, a nurse. She's studying bacteriology in the clinic next to my office. We're naturally interested along the same lines, and so we're quite good friends."

Noel's questioning gaze did not leave his face. And she received his words with reservations. Love was so important and she knew it often intruded into places where it was the least expected.

"Of course, if we had any attraction for each other beyond that of friendship," Julian went on unexpectedly, "it would be very suitable. But unfortunately, it looks as if the unsuitable people are always falling in love with each other."

"Perhaps that's the way nature meant for love to be," Noel said. Julian's frankness had made her feel better. But she was certain as long as Ruth Chester worked by Julian's side, she'd always be jealous of her.

Julian was looking at her now with a smile that was both grave and tender. "You're so lovely, Noel. You could turn any man's thoughts away from his career, or any other woman, if there should be another."

"But you're still determined not to fall in love with me?" she asked archly, a wave of happiness suddenly flooding her heart.

A smile flickered in his eyes. "Yes, quite determined."

"I could give all the hateful money away, you know," Noel said thoughtfully. Of course in a way, she had done that already.

"Don't be absurd," he said with tender reproach. Then looked at his watch. "I've only a few minutes left. Perhaps you'd better tell me of your plans. I have a feeling that I'm going to disapprove."

"You probably will," she smiled. "You see, you told me you could never belong to my world of extravagance and frivolity. And I'm tired of it myself. So I'm going to belong to yours."

He looked at her, his dark brows drawn up questioningly.

"I'm going to get a job," Noel went on. "I'm going to find out about the kind of world you live in. I'm going to learn things about life and living, things I couldn't learn any other way."

He shook his head. "Even if it's only a lark or a sudden whim, Noel, I think the idea is absurd."

She gave him a sweet, willful smile. Then they rose and left the cafe. Out on the sidewalk, Julian looked at her, his face a little stern. "You're too attractive, Noel, and too inexperienced. I'd much prefer that you give up this rather reckless idea and—go on with your aunt.

She shook her head. "Too late to change now. I've burned my bridges." Just how late it was for her to give up her plans, she did not intend for him to know. But when she had turned over all her money to her uncle, the die had been cast. She couldn't turn back, if she wanted to. It would be a year before she'd have money again.

"You're very stubborn, Noel," Julian began. "I'm afraid the trouble is that you were not spanked enough when you were young," he finished with a tender, unwilling smile.

"Perhaps not," she agreed with a little flush.

Julian was ready to cross the street now. He turned back for a minute. "If you do insist on carrying out this whim, you must promise to keep in close touch with me. So I'll know your impetuosity is not getting you into trouble."

"I'll promise that," Noel smiled. Wasn't that one of the objectives she had formed in her hurried campaign? To be closer to Julian —to learn to live in his world and take care of herself?

Julian said goodby then and left her. After which Noel walked thoughtfully up to Main and Madison streets. As soon as she managed to get her aunt, Frankie, off alone, she knew the real adventure would begin.

TAX DECISION

Sales Levy Payer Barred From Serving On Washington Jury.

SEATTLE, Wash. — (U.P.) — Although a Washington citizen pays a two-cent levy every time he buys a dollar's worth of merchandise, that does not make him a taxpayer in the eyes of the law, Judge Malcolm Douglas of Kint county ruled in barring "sales tax payers" from jury duty. To qualify for a juror a person must pay a property tax, the judge held.

HEDGES DATES BACK TO 1869

New Junior High Would Reduce Overcrowding, Provide Modern Building.

panicky children could easily be suffocated in case of fire.

The stairs which leads from the first floor to the basement floor rooms and toilets are enclosed with walls of wood and are just wide enough for two people to walk side by side—with a little crowding. Narrow stairs just like these became clogged with small charred bodies in the Collinwood school fire in 1908 in Cleveland. The children started down the steps in that holocaust, jammed the narrow stairways and trampled on each other. The narrow wooden stairs and the fact that the outside door opened inward cost 172 lives at Collinwood in less than an hour.

Hedges provides just such a fire trap in its stairs. "Well, nothing ever has happened," the skeptics say, "and the building is 67 years old."

That's what citizens of Collinwood said 30 years ago when a new building was suggested. "Why worry about a fire now, after all these years? We never have had one."

There's a disagreeable odor the minute you step inside the building . . . it smells of mould and decay and damp, dark places. There is no remedy for it—except a new building.

The "chamber of horrors" at Hedges is the boys' toilet room in the basement. If you don't think the name is appropriate, stumble down there some time. And stumble you will, for the floor of concrete has been patched until there are little hills and valleys and miniature precipices that seem to lie in wait for the unwary in the dark, cavernous room. The less said about the actual facilities of the place, the better.

The school building project which is to be undertaken if the $550,000 proposed bond issue passes on Aug. 9 directly affects the old Hedges building. It would be torn down and a new auditorium and community center built in its place. The program also includes all new sanitation facilities for boys and girls at Hedges, which would be installed in the 1911 unit.

Hedges would then become strictly an elementary school, for pupils in the first six grades. Hedges Junior high would be replaced by a new junior high—for all three junior high grades—on Cline avenue near Sturges, to be known as Johnny Appleseed Junior high.

One of the phases of the new Johnny Appleseed building which has most concerned the people of the southeast section of the city, is its location. Under the new program, Hedges junior high pupils would be geographically divided between John Simpson and Johnny Applessed. Pupils living north of Arch street would go to John Simpson and those south of Arch street would attend Johnny Appleseed.

The Cline avenue location was selected for three major reasons:

1—It is almost the exact center of the south part of the city, about a mile and a quarter from both east and west corporation lines. It is a mile from the southern corporation line, just as John Simpson is a mile from the northern corporation line.

2—It was the only ten-acre tract of land available at a reasonable price in the south central part of the city.

3—Just as Hedges was built to accommodate the trend of the city in 1871, so the Cline avenue location was selected to follow the growing and building trend in the present decade. The south and southwest sections of Mansfield are the young sections of the city and in the future the greatest number of pupils will come from there. Of 786 new houses built between 1928 and 1937, 75 per cent were south of Glessner and west of Main street.

Plans for the proposed new building are for a fireproof structure to accommodate 1,000 pupils and so constructed that the main building may be added to when the need arises. It would have like John Simpson, a large auditorium and gymnasium. It would have a fine and adequately equipped manual training department and shop rooms, cafeteria and shower rooms.

The first and second stories of the main building would have 20 standard class rooms, two large study halls, a library and special departments for home economics and commercial work. More than six and a half acres would be available for drives, parking space, playgrounds and an athletic field.

This, then, is what citizens will vote for or against on Tuesday, Aug. 9—the old vs the new; safe, modern buildings or dingy, dangerous buildings for Mansfield's school system.

LIFE SAVED BY CHANCE

Flying Boat Last Reported Battling Pacific Storm; Army Speeds Search.

around 6 o'clock tonight (5 a. m. EST). Even now we consider her only a half hour late. But that is not unusual."

The Hawaii Clipper, under command of Capt. Leo Terletzky of Palo Alto, Cal., carried six passengers and a crew of nine.

Left Week Ago.

The Hawaii, one of three flying boats in regular transpacific service for Pan American Airways, left her eastern base at Alameda, Cal., last Saturday.

She was capable of riding the waves indefinitely provided her hull was not damaged in an impact with the water.

Only tragedy in all of Pan American's Pacific flying was last Jan. 11, when seven men were killed in the mid-air explosion of the Samoan Clipper while dumping her load of gasoline for an emergency landing near Pago Pago, Samoa. The Samoan was not in regular service, but was being used, under command of the veteran Capt. Edwin C. Musick, to pioneer an Australian service.

Canton Island light in the South seas was dedicated yesterday to the memory of the men who died in that explosion.

Capt. Terletzky of the Hawaii Clipper was described by Pan American officials as one of their best fliers. He started flying for the company about ten years ago, and formerly was attached to the South American and Caribbean Lines. He was a 43-year-old naturalized Russian

The plane carried several hundred pounds of mail and express.

Pan American officials said the three ships flying the Alameda-Manila route had logged a total of nearly 2,000,000 miles of flying over the Pacific.

The ship, equipped with four 800-horsepower Wasp motors, could fly if one motor cut out. Moderately loaded as the ship was, it could keep aloft even if two engines stopped if the pilot "tacked" to keep it on an even keel.

Every advanced instrument for air navigation and one life preserver for each passenger was included in the equipment.

Although the ship carried only 15 persons, it was capable of carrying 53 persons, including crew members, on daylight flights.

Taft sought to enter the senate to "guard the Taft family fortunes from taxation," and said the "family and associates are willing to spend half a million dollars" to gain the nomination. Day asserted that as a state senator in 1931 Taft obtained passage of an intangible tax bill which had an immunity clause permitting the Taft estate to avoid penalties for unpaid taxes of previous years.

At Cambridge Taft called upon the national Republican program committee to formulate a policy providing for "liberal old age pensions,' further development of unemployed insurance, a definite farm policy, an opposition to the New Deal system of "regulation of manufacturing, commerce and agriculture."

The Democratic senatorial candidates spoke during a Hardin county rally yesterday. Robert J. Bulkley, seeking renomination, called for a continuance of "forward-looking New Deal policies," while George White attacked the "program of scarcity which opened arid lands in the west while taking Ohio farm lands out of production."

U. S. OFFICIALS GET WARNINGS ON ELECTIONS

Senate Probers Privately Inform 'Big Wigs' Not to Interfere in Campaigns.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Members of the senate campaign expenditures committee have warned important government officials privately that interference in senate election contests by department executives will not be tolerated, it was learned today.

A committee member said that the Democratic members of the senate want all government departments to void tactics which would give opportunity for valid criticism. He said that it was feared that if any questionable departmental activity were permitted, it would reflect on the committee and the Democratic party.

Sees Legislation Ahead.

Sen. David I. Walsh (D., Mass.), a member of the committee, predicted that the next congress would be asked to enact legislation prohibiting the interference of government officials in all political contests. He suggested either that amendments be inserted into all appropriation bills providing for dismissal of federal officials who intimidate, coerce or solicit contributions from employes for campaign funds, or that criminal penalties for objectionable tactics be written into the law.

"Some legislation is necessary," he said. "Unless something is done, the time may come when government relief funds and other payments are widely used to influence political elections."

The senate committee, set up to investigate charges of questionable practices in primary and election contests, is conducting investigations in the campaigns of nine state. Major interest now is in the Tennessee Democratic primary, scheduled for next Thursday.

It was learned that Ralph Barton, investigator who reported to the committee Wednesday after a week in Tennessee, had discussed alleged "rigging" of voters lists, coercion of state and federal employes, and assessments for campaign funds.

In South Dakota a double investigation of alleged intervention of the farm security administration in the general election campaign was begun today. Both the postoffice department and Washington FSA officials are inquiring into charges that the state FSA misused franking privileges for the campaign of Gov. Tom Berry, Democratic nominee for the senate.

SECRET! DUCE HAS A BIRTHDAY

He's 55 Today, But Don't Tell Anybody, Please.

ROME —(AP)— Premier Benito Mussolini had something today that he didn't like—his 55th birthday.

Italian newspapers, usually lyric about any occasion involving the duce, were silent: in the Mussolinian concept, Fascist Italy personifies youth; Mussolini personifices Fascism; hence any notice of his advancing age is taboo.

Il Duce doesn't look much older than a year ago. His head is almost completely bald, his waist is thicker, but his vigor continues.

He pilots his own bombing plane and can lead his aids in stiff inspection on foot.

LODI WATCHMAN SLAIN WITH AX

Man, 69, Slugged While Making Rounds at Lumber Mill.

LODI —(AP)—His head split by a blow from a heavy instrument, Benson Kissinger, 69, night watchman at a lumber mill here, died early today.

He was found unconscious in the mill early Thursday, apparently the victim of a robber whom he had met on his rounds during the night. Kissinger's purse, with a small amount of cash, was missing and the mill office had been ransacked.

A missing ax was believed to have been the weapon used in the attack.

COMPOSER DIES

Author of 'When You Were Sixteen' Stricken In New York.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The hand that penned many ballads, one of which was "When You Were Sweet Sixteen," was stilled by death today.

Funeral services for James Thornton, vaudeville actor and song writer of a generation ago, who died at the age of 76 after a long illness will be conducted today.

WIDEN HUNT FOR MISSING GIRLS

Mansfield Police Enlist Aid of Officers in 3 States in Effort to Find Sisters.

Authorities of three states today joined in the search for two sisters who have been missing from their home here since last Saturday.

The missing girls are Virginia Sheetz, 19, and her sister, Anna, 18, daughters of Mrs. Catherine Sheetz, 86 Daisy street, who left home a week ago and left a note telling their mother that they were going to the lake and would return Monday.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said today that a radio broadcast had been sent to Illinois and Indiana police asking them to join Ohio authorities in the search for the pair whom are believed to be with two young men.

Bates said the mother of the girls had expressed the belief that when the girls failed to return Monday that they might have gone to visit relatives in either of the two states. She told police that she did not know who her daughters' companions were.

She said she had returned home Wednesday evening to find a note on the table telling her that the girls had left for the lake and would be back Monday. Neighbors said the girls left with two youths in an old car.

They were described by police as both being of medium build with brown hair. They wore light dresses and had no coats.

The girls will be accompanied by Jane Williams, supervisor, and Lois Baughman and Betty Braden.

FAIL TO ACT

Dealers Leave 'Gift Award' Petition With Council.

The Gasoline Retailers' association of Richland county which has asked city council to prohibit "gift awards" by amending the city's gambling ordinance today had made no move to withdraw its petition.

A spokesman for the association yesterday said that a movement had been started by association directors to have the petition withdrawn. He said the wording of the petition had been too "all-inclusive" and that their intention had been to ask council to legislate against "gift awards" such as were made by some Mansfield gasoline stations recently, but which had been discontinued by agreement. Wording on the petition made the amendment request apply to all business establishments.

Meanwhile a police drive on punch boards, which Police Chief Meade K. Bates denied was influenced by the petition, continued today.

Bates said today that officers of the department had instructions to keep the city clean of the money boards which had made their appearance here in the last several weeks.

WAYNESBURG, Pa. — (AP) — It always rains in Waynesburg on July 29 and it did today—hard and copiously—for the 62nd time in 65 years.

Byron Daily — who has won 10 hats and lost a shirt in 11 years of betting on rain for the day—added two more hats to his collection.

Pushing his nose against the window of his drug store in this southwestern Pennsylvania community, he chuckled as he watched the big drops splatter the pavement.

Miss Norton, who was a member of the Perrysville school faculty last year, was re-employed there in May. In June she resigned at Perrysville to accept a position in the Butler schools.

PERRYSVILLE COUPLE OBSERVE 60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

PERRYSVILLE — The distinction of having lived for 57 years in the same property goes to Mr. and Mrs. William Herman who last Thursday celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at their home here.

William Herman, a son of German immigrants to America, and Mary Crawford were united in marriage on July 21, 1878, by William Cowen, a justice of the peace at Jelloway.

After living for a couple of years in Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Herman moved to Perrysville where they established their home, and the young husband began business as a contractor and building mover.

The bride's father, George Crawford, Revolutionary war hero and famed Indian fighter, who was sent with a force of soldiers to drive the Indians out of northern Ohio. Captured by the Indians he was burned at the stake north of Upper Sandusky. Crawford county was named for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman are the parents of ten children, seven of whom are living.

It is an unusual fact that Mr. and Mrs. Herman, their living children, their eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren, all live in the Perrysville community.

In spite of his eighty years, Mr. Herman still takes an active part in his business and works every day.

Mrs. Herman, who was 77 on July 10, takes care of her own home and does the housework for her husband, three sons and a grandson.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

SOLITUDE

TIRED of the traveled highway, I sought a place to rest. I drove my car into the center of a sugar and poplar woods, close to a rude fireplace made of stone, where stood an abandoned shack, used for boiling maple syrup, or camping out.

Within this little cove, the grass was long and green, fertilized by last year's leaves . . . the sky above was very blue. A gray squirrel stood by the crotch of an old beech, and barked. With his open mouth and fast-moving flanks, he looked so much in earnest that I wished I knew his language.

The cardinal whistled from a white thorn bush. I saw his flash of scarlet between the moving leaves. A prim little mother wren brought food three different times to her waiting brood, concealed in a hole beneath a rugged branch.

I walked about those giant tree for this was rest—and breathed the atmosphere of solitude, the loneliness that feeds the soul and felt the strength and uplift that it gives. I knew the "blackbirds roundelay," and the place "near to thought and God." I saw the flame of the burning bush, and warmed my being by its fervent heat. I felt a nearness to the "light that never was, on sea or land."

Evening came before I knew the sun had set. The evening star began to shine, almost above the place the sun had left. The gentle eastern breeze had ceased to blow. Not even a branch or twig or leaf was moving. The woods was full of peace . . . a sanctuary. I listened, but the sounds I heard were muted by the vast, oncoming dark, and seemed but a shade removed from silence.

REVOLT, RIOTS AND WARS STIR FOUR NATIONS

Strife Spreads to Far Corners of Earth; British Send More Troops to Burma.

(By Associated Press)

Revolt in Greece and rioting in Burma, added to wars in China and Spain, spread turmoil and strife today to far corners of the earth.

Four hundred armed rebels against the Greek government seized the capital city of Canea, on the Island of Crete. The men reported to be sailors, overpowered a garrison in Canea.

Greece's dictator, Gen. John Metaxas, ordered military, naval and air forces to Crete and ended the revolt.

Additional British troops were called out in Rangoon, capital of Burma, to restore order in the sacred city where 46 have died in four days of fighting between Burmese Buddhits and Indian Moslems. The soldiers were ordered to shoot if more than five persons gathered in a group.

Book Leads to Riots.

Publication of a Moslem book which Buddhists held to be an insult to their faith started the rioting. The book was withdrawn but knives flashed and stones flew in Bangoon's barricaded streets last night.

In Spain, insurgents reported they had released flood-waters of mountain streams to break the communications of government armies. Dams in the Ebro river and its tributaries were opened above the government forces, reported advancing on two sides of Gandesa, insurgent headquarters city, in the fifth day of their surprise offensive on the Catalan front.

Insurgents declared a nine-foot wall of water had swept away the government's bridges. The government, however, declared the stroke had failed to raise the Ebro effectively.

Japan's forces, pressing slowly toward Hankow, China's provisional capital, from about 110 miles down the Yangtze river, struck today primarily through the air.

Japanese airmen were reported to have bombed Kiukiang and Nanchang, in the Yangtze zone. Chinese reports said hundreds of noncombatants were killed.

A Chinese counter-offensive was said to have severed Japanese lines south of captured Kiukiang, 135 miles downriver from Hankow, while "further Chinese air attacks on Japanese warships" near Kiukiang "damaged seven more." Japanese said a hospital ship was struck but made no mention of damage.

CONDUCT STRAW VOTE IN CITY

Newspapers Seek Sentiment On Governor, Senator Races.

Four representatives of the Scripps-Howard newspapers were in Mansfield today to conduct a straw vote on the Aug. 9 primary election.

"Ballots" bearing the names of candidates for the nomination for governor and senator and to test the popularity of President Roosevelt were distributed in the business and residential sections and at the county fair.

Voters were asked to mark the ballots and return them to the canvassers. The question pertaining to the president asked: "Would you vote for President Roosevelt now?"

TAFT TO SPEAK ON WEDNESDAY

Young Republicans to Sponsor Rally at Senior High for Senatorial Candidate.

The Republican political campaign took on impetus today with the announcement that Robert Taft, Cincinnati, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, will address a rally in the senior high school auditorium next Wednesday evening.

Taft, son of the former president and later Chief Justice William Howard Taft, spoke in Mansfield recently when he addressed a luncheon club on taxation.

He is being brought to Mansfield by a group of young Republicans of which William Johns is chairman. Johns said that his committee was working on the theory that the entire political picture should be presented to voters before the primary. The Republican central committee endorsed Supreme Court Judge Arthur H. Day, Taft's opponent recently.

Taft has served a number of terms in both branches of the Ohio legislature and as speaker of the house in 1926.

Wednesday afternoon a tea for Mrs. Taft will be given at the Women's club.

ASHLAND JURY TO OPEN PROBE OF 'SHAKEDOWN'

Special Session Called, 60 Civil Service Workers Might Be Witnesses.

ASHLAND — That the Ashland county grand jury will meet in special session Monday to investigate charges of shakedown of civil employes in the state highway department was announced today.

To what extent the grand jury wishes to make the investigation depends how many will testify. Prosecutor A. Ross Siverling has a list of 60 classified workers of the highway department who may be called.

Instructions Expected.

It is expected that Judge C. C. Chapman will issue instructions to the jury for them to determine whether or not civil service employes have been forced to pay part of their salaries for current political campaign.

Other cases to be submitted to the jury include: that of Roger Hamilton, charged with attempted criminal assault; Ralph R. Meeks, charged with forgery; and that brought against O. H. Parkinson charging non-support of his mother.

LAWYERS BEAT DOCTORS AGAIN

Capture Annual Golf Tournament By Score of 18½ to 11½.

The lawyers bested the doctors again yesterday in their annual golf tourney and outing at Westbrook country club for the second consecutive year.

The score was 18½ to 11½ points for the attorneys, but Dr. Paul A. Stoodt had the day's best score to keep the physicians from a complete rout. Dr. Stoodt had a gross 77 and net 69 score over the 18-hole course.

Approximately 60 county doctors and attorneys attended the dinner in the clubhouse where Atty. William F. Voegele presided as toastmaster and made the awards.

FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1938.

Remember the Collinwood School Fire!

THIRTY YEARS ago Ohio and the entire nation was horrified by the Collinwood school fire, in which 172 children lost their lives.

Collinwood school was typical of its time—a substantial appearing building, rather ornate—BUT A FIRETRAP.

When the fire was discovered, shortly before noon, flames swept so quickly up the open stairways and through the halls, that there was no way of escape for the scores of screaming children caught in the frightful inferno.

Frantic parents gathered around, begging piteously that they might go to their children—to save them, if possible, or to die with them.

A great wave of interest and concern swept through this and other states, with fine determination that all school buildings should be immediately guarded against repetition of the Collinwood disaster.

Parents, citizens and officials were aroused to prompt action and many beneficial steps were taken in lessening fire hazards and improving construction methods in later school buildings.

Had it been THIS YEAR, instead of thirty years ago, that the Collinwood school fire occurred, there would be no question as to the outcome of the school bond proposal to be voted on a week from next Tuesday.

Every man and woman eligible to vote in Mansfield city school district would be stirred to high resolve that school children in this city should not be placed in any such danger and the element of cost would carry little weight against the safety of even one child—if it be YOUR child.

An article in yesterday's News-Journal revealed conditions in the old John Simpson Junior High school building (corner Fourth and Bowman streets) which not only make it a "fire trap" comparable to Collinwood school, but also show it to be entirely unfitted, in sanitation, lighting and school facilities, for continued use.

Study of the entire program contemplated in the million-dollar building and modernizing project dependent on approval of the $550,000 bond issue, should convince any open-minded person that advantage should be taken of the present opportunity to improve the housing of Mansfield's public school system.

Who can estimate, in dollars and cents, the value of the life of a single child!

This Week's 'Big Story.'

WHAT IS NEWS? This long-debated question is made even more confusing by the circumstance that this week's biggest news story centered around a demented youth who stood for eleven hours on a seventeenth story ledge of a New York hotel before plunging to his death.

The great city of New York was all agog over this novel form of entertainment. Streets in the vicinity were jammed with eager thousands who craned their necks to catch a glimpse of the crazed young man who refused to be lured back into a hotel room from the narrow ledge on which he poised for many hours.

Traffic was tied up, business on fashionable Fifth avenue in the vicinity of Fifty-Fifth street was practically suspended, newspaper reporters and photographers kept on the jump for up-to-the-minute stories and pictures. Wire photo services flashed pictures all over the country to brighten the front pages of newspapers in every city.

And when the jump was finally made, late in the evening, that was the thrilling moment for which those thousands had waited. Photographers had kept cameras focused for hours, in readiness for the climax. That is how it came about that some newspapers performed the great public service of showing various stages of the death plunge—passing the sixth floor—ten feet from the sidewalk, etc.

Page 1 stuff, every bit of it. A great story—although nobody seems able to explain just why.

Our Rights In Mexico.

THE United States government has suggested to the Mexican government that there are certain questions on which they disagree which should be submitted to international arbitration. The specific matter referred to is the confiscation, over a period of years, of American-owned farm lands. Such uncompensated seizure of the property of nationals of another country, says Secretary Hull, violates the good-neighbor policy.

A five-man board is recommended, to be set up under the provisions of the general arbitration treaty of 1929. The two questions to be determined are:

Whether, in taking over several hundred American farms, with a claimed value of $10,123,388, in the eleven years since 1927, Mexico has "complied with the rule of compensation as prescribed by international law" and

If Mexican non-compliance be established, in what amount and under what terms Mexico should make compensation.

The confiscated oil properties are not mentioned. Their turn for arbitration will come if legal remedies already sought do not prove effective.

In trying to carry out a far-reaching social program in behalf of its people, the Mexican government has frequently stepped on foreign toes or infringed foreign rights.

It's always a pleasant experience to tune in the radio just in time to hear the announcer say: "You have just heard a speech by Mr. So-and-so, who is a candidate for such-and-such office."

Now they're saying that the world will last a trillion years longer—as so many people became nervous over the idea that the end might come in a couple of billion years.

Report that Kentucky's Governor Chandler became ill after drinking water leads to wonderment as to how a true Kentuckian could become thus exposed.

Attention is called to the coincidence that the Roosevelt grandchildren are now four boys and four girls—a balanced budget.

Discussion about "the missing link" seems very remote—until you've seen a wrestling match.

Japan expected ease and found Chinese.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

HERE are some more automobile safety test questions, as propounded in one state. Can you answer them (in addition to those given yesterday)?

Q. How are flags and flares displayed when a commercial vehicle is disabled on the highways?

A. In the daytime a flag is placed 300 feet ahead of the vehicle, 300 feet to the rear and one at the side of the vehicle. In night time, flares are used instead of flags.

Q. What minimum number of lights are required on a motor vehicle operated at night?

A. Two headlights; one red tail light so arranged as to throw a white beam on the rear license plate.

Q. When does the law require you to lower the beam of your headlights?

A. When passing another vehicle at night.

GET THESE?

Q. When does the law require a rear vision mirror?

A. 1. When impossible to have an unobstructed view to the rear.
2. When the operator is deaf.

Q. Is it unlawful to park a motor vehicle other than in the direction of travel, on that side of the highway?

A. Yes, vehicles must park facing the direction of traffic.

Q. What is the purpose of highways and streets being marked into traffic lanes?

A. 1. To keep slowly moving traffic in the extreme right lane.
2. To permit the use of the odd lane for passing vehicles.
3. To use odd lanes at left hand turns.

Q. What is the correct procedure in making a left turn into an intersecting highway?

A. Do not turn left into the intersecting highway until you have passed the center of the intersection.

And so on!

VERY IMPORTANT

But here we believe is one of the most important rules of all—and it is not in the questions:

"Double white center lines are painted on the roadway on hills, curves, turns, approaches to railroad crossings and at other hazardous locations where it is unsafe to drive on the other man's half of the road."

Yet how many do it!

Can these foolhardy, dangerous persons ever be stopped?

SAFER

I have been examining the safety councils being developed—and I believe that the newer generations will be much safer drivers than the old drivers. The safest driving is yet to come—for the drivers are being trained virtually from childhood.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why Call It "Funny Bone?"

One of the oldest favorites among anatomical puns is the question and answer.

"Why do we call it the funny-bone?"

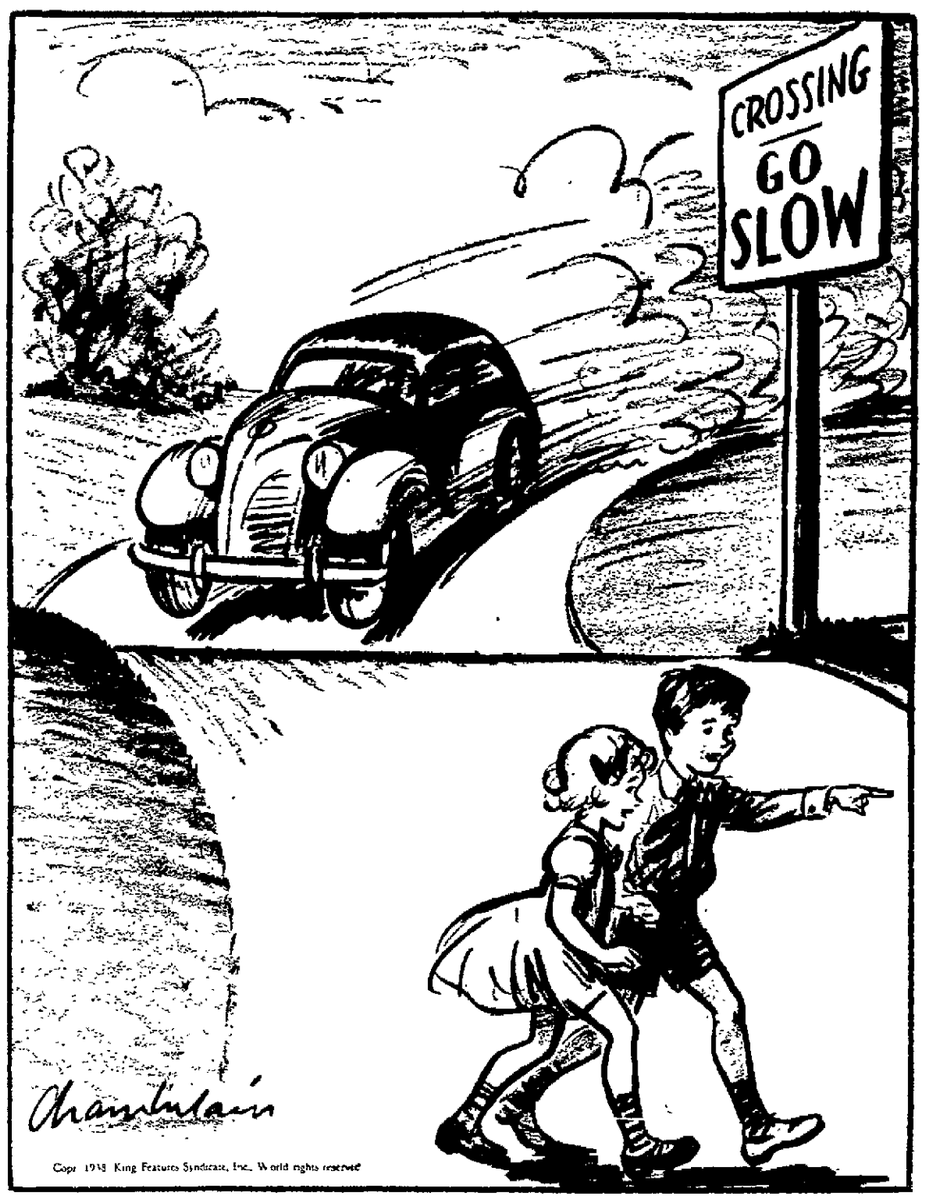
"Because it borders on the humerus."

Therein, say some, lies the origin of the term "funny-bone" for the bone which runs from the shoulder to the elbow technically known as the inner condyle of the humerus.

Contributing to the vogue of the popular name, however, is the fact that whenever this bone is struck so as to jar the ulnar nerve, there is produced a peculiar, tingling sensation.

For want of a more descriptive adjective, this reaction has been characterized as "funny" — hence "funny-bone."

BROTHER, CAN YOU SPARE A LIFE?



Highway to Alaska Project Revived

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Uncle Sam and Canada are flirting again with the idea of building an up-to-date highway through British Columbia from the border, somewhere in Washington, to the Alaskan border.

This suggestion originally was made about 10 years ago. It got nowhere at the time but occasionally has been semi-revived since then. Now it is being urged quite vigorously.

It was a Yankee notion initially, the theory being that the United States ought to be in touch with its extreme northwesterly territory otherwise than by water. Yet it was felt that British Columbia would profit by it also, and Canadians did not dispute this argument.

How to finance the enterprise was the essential problem to be solved.

ROUGH TERRAIN

The distance is considerable and the terrain to be traversed is rougher than the traditional tin lantern.

The job accordingly is bound to be mightily expensive. The first American proposal was to split the job's cost, internationally, 50-50. The Canadians were frank to say that, however much they might like the highway, they couldn't foot the bill on such a basis. Then 60-40 terms tentatively were offered. The Canadians replied that they couldn't stand that, either.

I think the "Canucks" were right. What way-station benefits they would be likely to get out of such a trans-British Columbian line of traffic certainly wouldn't compare with the advantages Uncle Samuel would derive from a direct land hook-up with Alaska.

Maybe now the U. S. will be disposed to be yet a bit more liberal.

BACK-DOOR TO ALASKA

The war department, in particular, is interested in insuring itself a landward back-door into Alaska.

The navy and the coast guard can look after the Alaskan coast. The territory is said likewise to have been provided with increasingly formidable aerial protection. All the same, the army wants to be able to arrive on the scene in short order in the event of unpleasant eventualities.

Of course, in that area, Japan is the power our military men are suspicious of.

My own opinion is that the Japanese have their hands full already with China and perhaps Russia. Still, they do poach in Alaskan waters.

BUT—

Nevertheless, for the sake of argument, assume the necessity for the transfer of American troops and supplies, from the U. S. proper, to Alaska, across Canada, versus the Japanese!

Wouldn't quite an airtight Anglo-American alliance be required?

Canada would agree in a minute. I am sure of it. But homestaying England? It would take a lot of diplomacy.

EQUATOR PLEASANTER

President Roosevelt went to the Equator, fishing, to get away from Washington's hot weather.

He showed his good judgment. I have lived on the Equator. It isn't as hot as this town has its spells of being. It's moderately hot ALL THE TIME but it isn't as hot periodically. What makes the Equator tiresome is the everlastingness, not its intensity.

A specific Equatorial thermometer of 110 isn't as oppressive as 95 in Washington.

The bugs are what get you in the tropics. Here they have their off-seasons. There they're perennial. A mosquito gets to be as big as a bumble-bee. A cockroach is an inch at his waistline.

But the president, lying offshore, misses these critters.

Health Advice

New Light Shed on Pellagra.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

JUDGING by the amount of time used up in discussing it, the most important communication to the scientific section of the American Medical association was by Drs. Spies, Bean and Stone on the cure of pellagra.

Pellagra is a disease found largely in the southern part of the country and in the poorest element of the population. This is not always true, but it is the rule.

It is characterized by progressive emaciation and a scruffiness of the skin, especially on the hands, and a sore tongue. The victim looks just naturally as if he were falling apart and healing up. And that has been the general conception—that it is due to bad food and insufficient food, because the people among whom it is likely to occur eat a monotonous diet of corn pone and salt meat and molasses.

Attempts to clear it up however, by dietary means have not always proved successful. It affects a great many citizens altogether, and it is a matter of encouragement to know that the use of nicotine acid promises to give practically complete relief. It is cheap, easily administered, safe and effective. A great and troublesome public health problem seems about to be solved. It means that thousands of people who are sick and largely on public relief can be restored to health.

Eye Trouble Studied.

Another public health problem that, like pellagra, affects the rural poor population of our southern states, is trachoma. Trachoma is a very exaggerated and chronic form of pink eye, or conjunctivitis. But whereas pink eye is a simple condition that clears up in a few days, trachoma causes large red masses in the eyelids and sometimes scarring that results in practical blindness. It is the same in Oriental "opthalmia." While it has long been known that trachoma is contagious, the exact germ which causes it has eluded the bacteriologists' search.

According to the paper by Drs. Thrygeson of New York and Richards of Albuquerque before the section on diseases of the eye, a filterable virus is responsible and they have been able to trace and identify it to a considerable extent. Thus trachoma belongs with the common cold, infantile paralysis and smallpox, so far as the nature of the causative agent is concerned.

Timely Editorial

'Not Interested in Money.'

The mob forever seeks a hero who is not to be corrupted, while it does its level best to corrupt him. It may have found one such in Nonstop Corrigan, whose every word and gesture since he dropped down on Dublin has been in keeping with the character given him by the first reporters to reach his side.

There are always those who live for their art alone or are willing to play the game for its sake, though they baffle the many more who measure every value in terms of the material. "I'm not interested in money. I can get enough fun and satisfaction out of life without it," says the young Californian, who admires Lindbergh, and in this and in his aptitude for flying and his attitude toward it bears a resemblance to his hero. We envy him that attitude. No man can be entirely content, except on those terms. Even the most mercenary of us must, in our lucid moments, envy one who asks no reward or satisfaction but those of the spirit. We hope he continues so, for his own sake.—Detroit News.

Listen, World!

There Is Always a Pot of Gold.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

STRAIGHT across the bay it sprang—from golden hill to golden hill—that arch of tinted flame.

Very small . . . clutching my father's hand in an ecstasy of excitement . . . I stood and watched. A rainbow! My first-to-be-remembered rainbow! The marvel of it—!

Then, from a far distance above my head, his dear voice came, not with our friendly, familiar chattiness, but with a strange remoteness in it—as though he spoke to someone whom I could not see.

"There is always a pot of gold at the end," he said, almost whispering.

"But, Daddy, really? Really a pot of gold, Daddy—really?" I was tugging at him, excited as a puppy, ready to be off. A really, truly pot of gold—oh, how well we could use it, we Robinsons! There was that doll carriage I had always wanted. And that miracle of a tiny stove one could really light! And a "magic lantern" for Phil! And a pink dress, with ruffles, for Winne! And—of course, a new suit for Daddy!

For even if one were only six, one could see that all was not well with Daddy's suit. The best beloved Hero . . . surely he should not have to wear patches. Other little girls' daddies did not have to wear patches. And now, now here, almost beneath my hand, was a really, truly pot of gold! And he never, never, never need wear patches again!

"But truly, Daddy . . . a real pot, truly?"

Gently he bent his eyes on mine. Why did he look so sad? Why did he cough before the answer came? Yet, when it did come, the old brave joy rang in it.

"Yes, little girl," he said. "There is always a pot of gold at the end of every rainbow. Maybe others will not see it. Maybe you will not see it yourself—at first. But it is always there . . . and you will always find it . . . if you are willing to wait."

I looked at him bewildered. He was doing it again . . . talking in that strange way I could not understand, as so often he did when I ran tagging at his heels. But already I knew that there was no use asking further. Some day I'd know.

The years have passed. And in their passing I have followed many a trail . . . chased many a rainbow. Sometimes with no slightest credit to myself. But though I've paid for the learning with many a tear, I know at last what my father meant. And, if, today, I were to give a slogan for every weary and discouraged soul I'd choose those very words my father said to me when I was six—

"THERE'S ALWAYS A POT OF GOLD AT THE END OF EVERY RAINBOW!"

Rainbows—how many of them we follow in our puzzled wanderings! Rainbows of romance and ambition, blazing adventure and glittering risk, bubble bright they rise before us, arching from dream to dream; and far below, struggling through the dust of drab reality we follow their winged flame . . . seeking, always, that "pot of gold."

AND ALWAYS IT'S THERE, IF WE HAVE THE WIT TO SEE IT. BUT HOW LONG IT TAKES US TO KNOW IT FOR WHAT IT IS!

These mocking failures and humiliations . . . these shocks and bitter betrayals . . . even these tears which clear our eyes for the longer, wider look—surely these are tragically far from "pots of gold!" But think again!

Where else could you have gathered courage and perspective? How else could you have learned to heal another's frustration and pain?

"A POT OF GOLD AT EVERY RAINBOW'S END?" YES, ALWAYS. BUT IT'S UP TO YOU TO FIND IT.

Never yet was there a risk that didn't prove to be a bargain . . . never a loss or mistake that wasn't in the end a gain . . . IF THE MORTAL WHO MADE IT HAD THE COURAGE TO STICK IT THROUGH AND WRENCH THE GAIN OUT OF THE DROSS!

As Others See It

No Inferiority Complex, Anyhow.

One can do no more than pray that a child with a Roosevelt for a father and a du Pont for a mother won't grow up with a complex.—Detroit News.

Maybe Not.

We may be wrong — we have been fooled before—but it doesn't seem conclusive that the American people will submit indefinitely to a government of the WPA, by the WPA, for the WPA, with the shovel as a symbol of abundance.—Toledo Blade.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Memo for today: Look up the word 'jaundiced.' Somebody introduced me to a man as one who "looked upon life with a humorously jaundiced eye." I'm not sure I know what jaundiced means . . . Drop Dr. Roy Akagi a note and thank him for that copy of his book, "Manchuria." It will take some time to get there. Dr. Akagi is at Dairen, Manchuria.

Drop H. B. Driscoll a note and thank him for that copy of his biography, "O. O. McIntyre" . . . Call Irving Zussman and ascertain whether the bartender at the Havana-Madrid is really the former butler of the Reynolds tobacco family . . . Thank Billy Rose for that nice letter of introduction to Mr. Seymour Weiss, of New Orleans, which I will need when I go down there next month.

Get a haircut . . . Drop those trousers by the tailors. I wear my pants so long that I always wear out the back of the cuff, dragging on the sidewalk . . . Find out where the Gaspe Peninsula is. On it is the small fishing village of Metis-sur-Mer, and Jean Tennyson is staying there. She is an opera singer.

DROP Janet Doran a note thanking her for her nice letter. She is a novelist and lives at Keene, N. H. . . . Duplicate those ties on Madison avenue. I bought eight washties for a dollar yesterday and left them on the subway.

Meet Bob Reud at the Cafe de la Paix for lunch at 12:30. Bob is a Hickory, N. C., boy . . . Make reservations for the opening of that new room with the Hawaiian atmosphere at the Biltmore tonight. Harry Owens and his orchestra will be there, and Harry is the composer of "Sweet Leilani."

Get in touch with Richard Halliburton's publishers and find when he expects to be back in town. Right now he is at his home in California. Halliburton's place is called "Hangover House," because it is over a high cliff. Everybody now has a name for his house. Jascha Heifetz's place is called "Catboat Corner," because he docks his catboat off the corner of the veranda—it's that near the water. And Vina Bovy lives at the Villa Cyrnos. It's a modest little shack of 80 rooms on the Riviera.

PICK up my pipe at the tobacconist. It ought to be ready. I have about 20, but the one I like best, as usual, got stepped on. Needs a new stem.

Have dinner at the South Wind club on the McAlpin roof. . . . This club is composed of adventurers, and they say the south wind is always the call to adventurous deeds . . . And from the McAlpin roof you get the most desirable south-wind in town—right off the harbor.

Get two 50-yard spools of 14-lb. test bait-casting line, and a pork rind spinner. Add a white buck tail to the spinner. I lost those on a recent fishing trip and the kit needs replenishing. The lines will cost $1.30 each and the spinner 90 cents. That makes $3.50 in all. Hope I can scare up $3.50.

And outside of that there isn't a single thing I have to do, except, of course, write today's column. Think of it, if I hurry and everything comes off as per schedule, I'll have 20 whole minutes to myself to waste and squander for my very own.

Samson—Strength and Weakness

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 31 is Judges, Chapters 13 to 16, especially 14:5, 6; 15:11-14; 16:15-21, the Golden Text being Ephesians 6:10, "Be strong in the Lord and in the strength of his might.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

SAMSON was a physical giant and a moral and spiritual pigmy; a crude man of iron in a crude iron age, a man of unusual gifts, but neither sense nor grace to use them aright; a man for whom, in his good and godly parentage, God did much, but who grieved God and broke the hearts of his parents by prostituting his unusual talents in base and sensual ends.

Samson's Broken Vow.

Samson was given of God to be dedicated as a Nazarite under a vow of strict temperance and self-discipline for the development of strength of character to deliver God's people: "The child shall be a Nazarite unto God from the womb: and he shall begin to deliver, Israel out of the land of the Philistines." Then he enfeebled his whole ministry as a deliverer by himself becoming "unequally yoked together with unbelievers" in marriages with Philistine women, who became the Philistines' tools to deliver Samson into their power. What profit, then, that Samson had power "to rend a lion as he would have rent a kid" if he opened his soul to Satan who "like a roaring lion" brought in a whole brood of evil passions more destructive than a pack of mountain lions?

"What availed this temperance not complete
Against another object more enticing?
What boots it at one gate to make defence,
And at another to let in the foe?"

Samson's supreme sin came in his "casting pearls before swine" when, in spite of repeated evidences of Delilah's perfidy, he revealed to her and her people the secret of his strength which God had promised him. "He told her all his heart, and said unto her, There hath not come a razor upon mine head; for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man."

Thus Samson showed himself unfit to be the custodian of God's blessing and it departed from him.

"And he wist not that the Lord was departed from him But the Philistines took him, and put out his eyes and brought him down to Gaza and bound him with fetters of brass; and he did grind in the prison-house." Thus "they enslave their children's children, who make compromise with sin."

Learned Lesson Late.

Samson learned this lesson belatedly and bitterly, and his sad example is set forth in this tragic story "for our admonition upon whom the ends of the world are come." "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

Blind Samson grinding grain like an ox for his enemies and the enemies of God is a pathetic end for a child of so great promise and so great grace as he was from his birth. The crash of timbers and the shrieks of his enemies, upon whom he brought down ruin and death for them and himself, ring down through the ages to warn us that "God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

"For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

OFFICERS SOFTENED

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— Traffic officers will have to be "a little more Emily Post" and "a little less top-sergeant" hereafter toward Pittsburgh's erring motorists. That is the warning issued by Mayor Cornelius D. Scully after he had asked Safety Director George Fairley to draw up a new code of better manners for traffic officers.

DAVEY CALLS ON PENSIONERS TO GET HIM VOTES

Letters to Aged Point to 10 Per Cent Increase He Ordered Last Year.

Gov. Martin L. Davey had extended his campaign for re-nomination to Richland county old age pensioners today, asking them to vote for him at the Aug. 9 primary and to get the assurance of "three or four dozen friends" to support him.

The governor, who is seeking re-nomination on the Democratic ticket, sent letters to each pensioner, outlining his activities in their behalf and asking for their support in August and again in November.

He said "our opponents have criticized me for increasing the old age pensions ten dollars per month, which was done nearly two years ago" Davey ordered the increase in October, 1936, about a month before the election in which he was running for a second term.

"Why they should take this unfair attitude I do not know," the governor said.

In a campaign address here last week, Charles Sawyer, Davey's opponent in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, accused the governor with playing "on the heartstrings of the old age pensioners."

Points to Yule Increase.

He pointed out that when he gave orders last December to increase all old age pensions 10 per cent "so that you folks might have this extra amount in time for Christmas, our enemies criticized me"

"Political opponents tried to pass a law to prohibit the governor from increasing old age pensions," the letter continues. "Our friends defeated this effort to hurt your interests."

"During the last three years, we have secured amendments to the old age pension law, correcting many of the original defects, in order to make the existing law more just and humane. * * * It is my ambition to have the best law (pension) in the United States.

"This is one of the reasons why I should like to be governor again. Your friendship has meant a lot to me, and I am happy in the fact that it has been possible to help you and improve the services rendered by our state.

Asks Them to See Friends.

"Would you be willing to talk to all your relatives and friends, and ask them to go to the polls primary election day and ask for a Democratic ballot in order to vote for me? You might be able to see three or four dozen of your friends, and get their assurance that they will support me for re-nomination."

With some of the letters were enclosed copies of a letter from the widow of a pensioner who gives Davey credit for keeping her husband from the county home, and pledging her vote to him in August.

The widow was quoted as writing: "He (her husband) loved and admired you. He would say to his friends: " 'Gov. Davey is the best governor that Ohio ever had and they will never get a governor like him. So they had better keep him as long as they can, if they know what is good for them.' "

THIEF SMASHES OUT

LAWTON, Okla. — (U.P.) — A broken inside lock on the rear door of a burglarized Lawton grocery puzzled officers. Finally they concluded that the thief had hidden among the store merchandise and had been locked in at closing time. He had to smash the lock to get out. Seven dollars in pennies were his loot.

HONEY ROCK TO MAKE BOW HERE

Acorn Squash, Few Berries on Hand; Plentiful Supply of Produce at Markets.

Newcomers in the melon line to appear in the markets this week-end will be the honey rock cantaloupes, the first of the season. The acorn squash is also making a debut tomorrow.

Because of eastern rains, the blueberries and huckleberries are scarce, but a few have been promised for tomorrow as well as California strawberries. There also will be such favorites as pineapple, sweet black cherries, Bartlett and sugar pears, seedless grapes, plums and apricots, homegrown and Indiana peaches and all kinds of melons.

In addition red and black raspberries, blackberries are plentiful and there are a variety of apples on the market.

Besides a wide selection of green leafy vegetables from iceberg lettuce to kale, romaine and water cress, there are green peas, lima beans, brussels sprouts, Ashland celery, mushrooms, and both white and golden bantam sweet corn available for the week-end shopper.

REFUSES AGE PENSION

DUNPHY, Nev. —(U.P.)— An 87-year-old Shoshone Indian here is not a candidate for a pension and doesn't think too much of pale-faces who are. When it was suggested to him that he apply for one, he replied "Me no Uncle Sam boy Me like to work"

USE BOOKS AGAIN

8,000, Soaked By Ohio Floods, Back in Circulation.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (INS) — Thirteen months ago 8,000 valuable reference books were soaked by the Ohio river flood. Their pages were full of silt, their bindings twisted beyond recognition. Today those 8,000 volumes are back on the Louisville public library shelves, just as good as new. A Philadelphia firm took the books, cleaned them, dried them, pressed the pages, rebound them and shipped them back.

ICE CREAM FINE ASSESSED

BARRINGTON, N. J. — (U.P.) — Police Chief Edward Schickling was fined four quarts of ice cream on a charge of impersonating an officer when police court and the borough council were taken over by boys during Barrington's annual Youth week

NOTE IN BOTTLE

Found 9 Months After Japs Threw It in Pacific.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — A bottle cast overboard by a Japanese training ship was found on Arcata Beach, near Eureka, nine months and four days after being set adrift. The bottle picked up by Z. C. Thompson, Dr. H. H. Stuart and Oscar Johnston, contained a post card in both Japanese and English asking the finder to notify the Japanese training ship Shin-Toku-Maru, as to the date and position found.

Auto Fuel To Be Called By British Name In Vancouver.

VICTORIA, B. C. — (INS) — Motorists will operate their cars on petrol instead of gasoline on Vancouver Island henceforth, at request of the island publicity bureau. To maintain the English atmosphere for which Victoria is famed, all stations will call fuel by its British name, petrol, instead of by the American gasoline.

FINDS WATCH LOST 17 YEARS

Farmer Loses Timepiece While Plowing; Gets It Back.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y.—(UNS)—While plowing his field back in 1921, Edgar Philpott lost a watch he had borrowed from the housekeeper while his watch was at the jeweler's. Figuring the time piece was gone for good, he bought a new one.

Recently, one of Philpott's employes was plowing the same field and up turned the watch. The case was undamaged but the works were rusted beyond repair.

FIREMEN REVERSE SELVES

BUTTE, Mont.—(U P)—Fire Chief Martin and his crew enjoyed the thrill—that comes only once in the life of a fireman—of burning down of a building instead of putting out the fire. Judge T. E. Downey ordered "destruction of the building by fire because it had become infested with lice and vermin.

Senator's Ex-Wife Opponent?

Mrs. Linda Bilbo, divorced wife of Senator Theodore Bilbo of Mississippi, will oppose her husband for the U. S. senate in 1940 — unless she changes her mind. The Bilbos were recently divorced after being married 35 years. "I am no inexperienced campaigner," said Mrs. Bilbo in making her announcement.

This is an age of substitutes, but none has been discovered for honesty.

NEARLY FINISHED

Examiners Complete Check of County Records in Month.

State examiners will complete inspection of Richland county records early in September and a report probably will be ready within six weeks after the information is submitted to the state, Willard Darling, Lucas, one of the examiners, said today.

Examiners have been busy checking county and township books since last December, with as many as four inspectors working at the courthouse during the spring months.

With the work nearing completion, only Darling is still on the job, and he will leave Saturday for a vacation. The inspection work will be halted during the early part of August and resumed late in the month, probably with two inspectors employed here, Darling said.

The report of findings of the examiners will be submitted to the county auditor by the state auditor's office.

Bread Is Our Chief Item of Food

Good bread of course requires a good baker, also equally important is high class flour.

Flour depends first for its quality upon the quality of the wheat, then upon a well equipped mill. Our mill is one of the best equipped in the country.

Both for the bread baker and cake baker, we buy the highest quality wheat in their respective classes, and pay the highest prices.

Thursday, we were paying 62c for No. 1 Soft Red Winter Wheat. WE WANT RICHLAND COUNTY WHEAT.

BREAD IS YOUR CHEAPEST AND BEST FOOD—EAT MORE OF IT.
